

SMITH CALLS REED TO AID CAMPAIGN

TAMMANY HALL SEEN AS CAUSE OF PARTY WOE

Lawrence Foresees Trouble Over Selection of Democratic Manager

GERRY IS MENTIONED

Party Meeting July 11 Will Settle Choice of Campaign Head

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1928, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington — If the Republican campaign management is having a hard time getting started, there is consolation for them in the fact that the Democrats are having a hard time too.

The problem with the Democrats is of an entirely different sort. The line of demarcation between the Tammany and non-Tammany group of supporters of Governor Smith is beginning to grow wider and wider. The New York governor is not the kind who abandons any of his friends, and therefore his unequivocal speech on the Fourth of July in defense of the Tammany tradition was considered more than a gesture of friendship for his associates, but a willingness to meet the charge of his opponents with respect to Tammany affiliation. But if Mr. Smith on the one hand shows no signs of running away from Tammany, he is at the same time giving clear indication that he cannot allow Tammany to run his national campaign.

The one fear expressed by disgruntled Democrats outside the New York atmosphere, "has been that the New York governor might allow his loyalty to persuade him to select a campaign manager with what is characterized as a "provincial attitude." Someone with a national viewpoint to lead the leaders from other states can guard their problems is being urged.

GERRY FAYORED

The reason why Senator Gerry of Rhode Island is favored for national chairman is because he has a wide acquaintance among Democrats throughout the nation, but it is no secret that the non-Tammany group behind Mr. Smith have wanted to go even further away from practical politics and select some outstanding business man. The name of Melvin Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago and Owen D. Young, chairman of the Board of the General Electric Company have been mentioned again and again wherever national committee men are foregathered. In fact, the talk was, at the last of a man of the Owen Young type, if he himself was unable to accept, the theory has been that a business man in the national chairmanship would instill confidence in the business world that the Democratic party if brought into power would not be a disturber of business. But while the business idea has been talked of, it is gradually being abandoned in favor of a practical political leader of experience.

The meeting of the Democratic national committee on July 11 will settle the point but meanwhile the Democrats are having their share of worry and the campaign cannot get started in earnest until a national chairman has been chosen.

WISCONSIN SHOE FIRM IS FACING BANKRUPTCY

St. Louis — (P) — An involuntary bankruptcy petition and application for a receiver were filed late Friday against the Menzies Shoe company of Fond du Lac which has headquarters here and eight factories in middle western cities.

Three creditors filed the petitions after the company made unsuccessful efforts to settle with creditors on the basis of 25 cents on the dollar and a plan to reorganize the firm was also presented. An accountant's report made public 10 days ago showed the company had claims of $350,000 against it, with cash on hand of only $1,500.

GUARDSMEN WILL BEGIN RECORD FIRING SUNDAY

Record firing will be started by members of Co. D. Sunday morning in their work on the company machine gun and pistol range northwest of the city. Members of the second platoon have been ordered on the range and all other members of the company are being prepared to begin firing.

CIRCULATE KOHLER NOMINATION PAPERS

Nomination papers for Walter J. Kohler, candidate for Republican nomination as governor, have been received in the city and are being circulated by Republican workers. Kohler received the endorsement of regular Republicans at their convention at Green Bay recently.

Polar Flier Feared Dead By Rescuers

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen — (P) — Roald Amundsen was 19 days overdue at Kings Bay Saturday. All search for him and his five companions has been fruitless. They have been swallowed up as completely by the Arctic as have nine members of the crew of the Italia and scant hope is held that any of them will ever be found alive.

Captain Ravazzoni, flying a large seaplane, searched the waters and islands off the Norway coast for traces of Amundsen without success. He flew from Tromsø, where Amundsen started, past Hammerfest. Landing there the airman questioned fishermen concerning the report that a fishing vessel had found Amundsen's body. He found no one who knew of such a discovery.

With Lieutenant Einar-Paul Lundborg, Swedish flier, rescued there was hope that the others would be taken off. Lieutenant Shyberg, another Swedish airman, is understood to have affected the rescue.

The Russian ice breaker Krassin was again making slow progress toward the castaways Saturday after having been blocked by pack ice.

WORKMAN UNHURT IN FALL OF FIFTY FEET

Slips Off Scaffold and Falls into Empty Bin at Cereal Mills

Falling 50 feet into an empty oats bin at the Appleton Cereal mills, W. College-ave, at 930 Saturday morning, Paul Christensen, 34 E. Pacific-st., escaped with minor injuries. The physician said examinations failed to show any serious injury, but that complications may show up in later tests.

Christensen, who had been working with the Appleton-Wrecking company which is tearing down the mill only two days, was working on the seventh floor with George Gormons and M. W. Grant, who saw him fall from the scaffold on which he was standing. Christensen, who was conscious when picked up, was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital.

CLINTON SLAYER SOUGHT BY MILWAUKEE POLICE

Clinton — (P) — Milwaukee, Wis., and Taylorville, Ill., were the focal points of the activity Saturday bent upon running down the slayer of Harry Mayford, filling station attendant killed Tuesday by a man who refused to pay for some gasoline.

Milwaukee police joined in the search Friday night when it was learned that a man answering the description of the slayer had stopped Wednesday morning at a farm house in the town of Harmony, near Milton. He had breakfast and told the family he was going to Milwaukee.

Sheriff H. B. Moseley planned to go to Taylorville Saturday with deputies to confer with Sheriff D. J. Dumbear, who has been seeking two young men absent from the city from Tuesday to Thursday and whom he suspects may throw some light upon the slaying.

GERMAN-IRISH FLIERS END VISIT TO KAISER

Doorn, Holland — (P) — Captain Herman Koehl, Baron Von Huenefeldt and Major James Fitzmaurice, ending a brief visit to the former Kaiser here, took off Saturday for Soesterberg, enroute to Cologne.

The three trans-Atlantic fliers flew over Doorn, circled the castle and threw out a message while the former Kaiser and his family waved their adieu from the castle roof.

Chicago Man Picked To Manage Western G. O. P.

Washington — (P) — James W. Good, of Chicago, was named western campaign manager for Herbert Hoover Saturday.

After a conference with Mr. Hoover, Mr. Good announced he would establish headquarters in Chicago, "very soon."

Referring to the western campaign, Good remarked that "there must be legislation to make ample provision for settlement of the farm problem." He did not discuss what legislation was contemplated.

"The west is Republican," Good said. "It is Republican and believes in protection through the tariff and it knows that the principle of protection must be applied to the settlement of the farm problem."

"The folks out there are so well grounded in Republicanism that they are not going to support a party which doesn't believe in protection and has always held it unconstitutional."

Secretary Hoover invited the Republican leaders attending the conference Saturday night to have dinner with him Saturday night at his home.

Secretary Hoover is anxious to perfect his campaign organization before leaving the capital and to this end a similar gathering of national committee

EUROPE IN AIR OVER DEATH OF RICH BELGIAN

Lowenstein Puzzle Grows Apace — Memorial Services Are Postponed

London — (P) — Discussion of the mystery of Captain Alfred Lowenstein's death by a fall from his airplane into the sea went on apace Saturday.

Efforts to find his body at the point where the crew of his plane and its other occupants assert he fell into the English channel through the plane somewhere between London and Dunkirk, where it was first seen to land, and disappeared or that he vanished in a fast motorcar after landing at Dunkirk.

Tests made at Le Bourget air-drome, France, to determine whether it was possible to open the door of a plane in flight showed it was not easy to do so.

Rumors that the whole affair was a gigantic hoax were circulated in brokers' offices and other concerns interested in dealings of the stock exchanges of London, Paris and Brussels. One suggestion was that Lowenstein never left Croydon. Another rumor was that he landed with the plane somewhere between Croydon and Dunkirk, where it was first seen to land, and disappeared or that he vanished in a fast motorcar after landing at Dunkirk.

Newspapers recalled that the mysterious deaths of prominent persons had always been followed by such rumors.

The Paris Journal investigated the possibility of Lowenstein's vanishing alive. They made a careful examination of official records of the flight and reached the conclusion that the time which elapsed between the departure of the plane Croydon and its landing at Dunkirk would have made another stop enroute.

The London Daily Express quoted an unnamed intimate friend of Lowenstein as saying the Belgian was subject to sudden heart attacks due to an abnormal blood pressure of more than 200 millimeters instead of the normal 150. The discovery of his collar and tie in the plane suggested to the friend the possibility that Lowenstein had ripped these off to gain relief from a sudden attack. Finding this insufficient he was thought to have forced open the door, splintered the wooden frame, to get fresh air, collapsed from the exertion and plunged to his death.

All who knew Lowenstein insisted that he had no reason for committing suicide. In Paris it was thought that the most plausible theory was that the banker had been thrown against the exit door when the plane was banking on a turn and the door opened permitting him to slip through to his death. It was asserted that when the plane was banking the wind whirled on the door would have been less.

Memorial services for Captain Lowenstein, have been postponed as the captain's death has not yet been definitely established.

The services were to have been held next Wednesday at the church of St. Michael and St. Gudule in Brussels.

TWO KENOSHA KIDDIES DIE FROM POISONING

Kenosha — (P) — Frank Postbinder, 13, died from poisoning here Saturday. He is the second child in three days of the same cause. The youth was taken ill after he had eaten some popcorn purchased at a local carnival.

Whiteford T. Schmidt, 10, of Kenosha, died of poisoning Thursday, an autopsy showing that she had put fireworks in her mouth.

State Head Sees Victory For Hoover In Minnesota

Superior — (P) — Upon the request of a Minnesota delegation headed by Governor Christianson, President Coolidge is preparing to deliver a 10-minute speech at Cannon Falls, Minn., July 25, at the unveiling of a monument of Colonel William Colville of the First Minnesota volunteer infantry which participated in the battle of Gettysburg. With Governor Christianson, when he invited Mr. Coolidge Friday, were representatives of the Knottan, Newton, Goodwin and Maas, all of Minnesota.

After their audience with President Coolidge, both Governor Christianson and Representative Newton predicted a Republican success in Minnesota in the November elections.

Governor Christianson said, however, that the outcome at the polls would be greatly influenced by any declaration which Secretary Hoover might make as to his interpretation of the farm relief plank in the Republican platform. He explained that Minnesota farmers are dissatisfied with both Republican and Democratic specific declarations from the candidates of their parties as to what they propose to do for agriculture if elected.

Minnesota, however, its governor said, is normally Republican and he had every expectation of Secretary Hoover's success there. He predicted that in the same halting Senator Henrik Shipstead, seeking reelection on a farmer-labor platform, would be defeated by A. E. Nelson of St. Paul, regular Republican candidate for the senate.

Newton, who has agreed to become head of the Republican campaign speakers' bureau, said he would call upon all Republican senators and all members of the cabinet to speak in the campaign. He expected President Coolidge also to deliver some speech, but added that the chief executive's efforts in the campaign would probably be unostentatious and casual.

Newton thought that national Republican campaign headquarters would have been better located in Chicago than in Washington.

INDIAN WINS SUIT IN FEDERAL COURT

Wealthiest Redman Is Dismissed

Fort Scott, Kans. — (P) — The marital and financial relations of the world's wealthiest Indian, and his white wife, again have been approved by a federal court.

Another of the series of suits instituted by the government since the elopement of the couple in 1925, was dismissed here Friday by Federal Judge John C. Pollock. The action grew out of the distribution in 1923 by the interior department of about $1,100,000 of Barnett's fortune.

In the suit here, the government sought recovery of $150,000 attorneys' fees paid by Mrs. Barnett. The defendants, were charged with receiving the fee under a contract call for 25 percent of the money they could obtain for the white wife from her husband's estate.

Judge Pollock held that Mrs. Barnett had a right to marry the Indian and that his wealth from oil leases was obtained legally.

HARVARD OARSMEN WIN OLYMPIC GAME TRIALS

Philadelphia — (P) — Harvard's four-oared crew won the right to go to the Olympic games by defeating the University of California crew in the final heat of the trials on the Schuylkill Saturday.

It was one of the closest races ever rowed here. The Harvard crew won in six minutes, 23.5 seconds and the Californians at 6:25.5. It could not have been any closer without being a dead heat. But it was a victory and it meant that the college four instead of the club crew got the call for the Olympics.

GLOBE RACERS HOP TO MOSCOW FROM BERLIN

Moscow — (P) — John H. Mears and Charles G. D. Collier attempt to set a new record around the world by road racing, arrived here by train from Berlin at 10:15 a. m. Saturday.

GERMAN FLIERS BREAK RECORD FOR ENDURANCE

Risticz and Zimmerman Still in Air After 60 Hours and Going Strong

Dessau, Germany — (P) — The German aviators Risticz and Zimmerman established a new world's record for a duration flight Saturday. At 3:43 o'clock Saturday afternoon they had surpassed by an hour the Italian record of 58 hours and 34 minutes.

After they had been in the air more than 60 hours, the two pilots dropped a message stating they intended to continue until darkness.

At the 60 hour mark they had even passed the Belgian record established on June 5, of 59 1/2 hours which was of doubtful recognition since the Belgian plane had been refueled while in flight.

THREE MEN SOUGHT FOR JAIL DELIVERY

Men Held for Sheriff, Slug Jailer and Make Escape

Superior — (P) — Police are searching for two St. Paul men and another from Eau Claire, held on holdup charges, who escaped from the Douglas Co. jail Friday night, after holding the night jailer at bay with a gun then slugging him into unconsciousness.

The men who escaped were being held on the sheriff of Polk Co. at Grantburg. They were booked as John Strain and David Cooley, both of St. Paul and Lloyd Smith, Eau Claire. Peter Madolsky, the night jailer, was looking up two trustees, who had been working in the kitchen, when the break was effected. As Madolsky unlocked the barred door, one of the three men drew a gun and demanded that the jailer throw up his hands.

Madolsky refused to do so and tried to close the door. One of the trio slugged him and another beat him with a cribbage board. Madolsky sank to the floor, unconscious and the three men made their way out into the main part of the jail, through the sheriff's quarters and into the open.

WILLS TRIMS SPANIARD TO KEEP TENNIS CROWN

Wimbledon, Eng. — (P) — Helen Wills, American tennis star, retained her championship in the women's singles at Wimbledon Saturday, defeating Senorita Elia De Alvarez, brilliant young Spanish player 6-2, 6-0, before a huge crowd which included the king and queen.

Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, French Davis cup pair, won the men's doubles championship in straight sets from Gerald Patterson and J. B. Hawkes, Australian veterans, 12-11, 6-4, 6-4.

E. Zachary Ryan, California, now living in England, and P. D. R. Spencer, of South Africa, won the mixed doubles championship by defeating Jack Crawford and Daphne Akhurst, youthful Australians, in straight sets 6-2, 6-1.

STATE MARSHALL ASKED TO INVESTIGATE BLAZE

Chippewa Falls — (P) — The state fire marshal has been asked to investigate the firing of the barn and house on the farm of John Budah near Ladon, Thursday morning. According to the report of the sheriff's office, a neighbor discovered the fire on the roof of both buildings simultaneously. Mrs. Budah had gone away to visit relatives but Budah has not been heard of and same fear was expressed that he may have perished in the fire which destroyed the home and barn.

SHOE MANUFACTURERS PLANNING BIG MERGER

Milwaukee — (P) — Negotiations are being made for the merger of a group of Milwaukee shoe manufacturers into a central holding company, which, if put through, will represent one of the largest consolidations of the Wisconsin leather industry, the Journal reported Saturday.

The proposed merger, it is reported, will involve at least six different concerns — Milwaukee. The following corporations are reported to be considering the merger:

The Weyenberg Shoe Mfg. Co., operating plants in Milwaukee, Beaver Dam and Portage, the Ideal Shoe Mfg. Co., Water Booth Shoe Mfg. Co., Rock Shoe Co. and Kozy Comfort Shoe Mfg. Co.

ITALIAN AGES PILOT SAVOIA FOR 59 HOURS

Ferrarin and Delprete Break Own Record in Hop from Italy to Brazil

Rio Janeiro — (P) — Captain Arturo Ferrarin and Major Carlos Delprete in breaking the world's distance flight record bettered their own duration flight record by 25 minutes.

Bernardo Attolico, Italian aviator, after a telegrammatic interview with the aviators that they had been in the air for 59 hours before they landed at Torres, 50 miles north of Natal and 4,377 miles by airplane from Montecelio field, Rome. They held the duration flight record at 58 hours, 34 minutes and 25.15 seconds. It is unlikely that they will be credited with the 59 hour record since the previous mark must be bettered by at least one hour to be recognized.

Fog, the ambassador said, blocked their attempt to reach Rio Janeiro. Instead of landing at Point Gortabbu, 10 miles north of Natal, as reported at first, they flew so low as the make it appear that they had touched the ground. Then they continued on in the fog and darkness searching for a suitable landing place for their large plane. Finally they came down on the beach and landed safely.

At times the fog was so dense that they flew only 20 feet from the ground. The fliers told the ambassador that during their flight from Rome they had encountered all kinds of adverse weather, fog, winds, rain and even hail.

The French air mail company placed one of its planes at the disposal of the Italians. Acting on instructions from Rome, however, they declined the offer and will continue their flight to Rio Janeiro in their own plane when it is repaired.

The ambassador said the Italian Chamber of Commerce of Sao Paulo, Brazil, had offered a prize of $50,000 lire ($25,000) for a flight from Italy to Brazil and the aviators had made this flight with the consent of the Italian government and would not fly to Argentina.

TEXAS JUDGE Acts To Ban Church Work

Dallas, Tex. — (P) — Women carpenters as well as men were threatened with arrest here Saturday when they attempted to do work on a Baptist tabernacle, a construction of which has caused the suspension of two temporary injunctions and a passage in jail.

A second injunction was issued Friday when deputy sheriffs, who attempted to disperse a crowd of women workers, were informed the first injunction only ordered "them" to cease their activities.

Informing that the first injunction he issued failed to provide a means of stopping the women carpenters, Judge Towne Young revised his order to restrain "men, women or persons," from further work on the building, alleged to have been constructed in violation of city ordinances.

Staying the new injunction, the officers found the 30 odd women workers had quit for the day. The deputies were ordered to rigidly enforce their new orders Saturday.

Meanwhile the Rev. Earl Anderson, pastor of the church, close to remain in the county jail, after he was fined $100 and ordered to post a bond of $1,000 when Judge Young found him guilty of contempt of court for violating the injunction. The pastor said he would remain in jail until his protest against interruption of construction on the church had been heard throughout the country.

The Rev. J. Frank Norris, noted evangelist and pastor of the First Baptist church at Fort Worth, has announced he will continue to lead revival meetings at the church as long as his brother pastor remains in jail.

The French air mail company placed one of its planes at the disposal of the Italians. Acting on instructions from Rome, however, they declined the offer and will continue their flight to Rio Janeiro in their own plane when it is repaired.

LAST MINUTE Bulletins

Harlan, Ky. — (P) — Rifles barked here Saturday and when the echo of the last shot had faded away in Kentucky's mountains, one man lay dead and a third was missing and believed killed.

The dead are Floyd Ball, 32, Sheriff of Harlan Co., and father of six children; John Hensley, 45, a deputy sheriff.

Tom Holes, 48, a deputy sheriff, is missing.

The sheriff received an anonymous telephone message late Friday night at his home here reporting that a man was terrorizing passersby on the mayo trail, twelve miles west of Harlan. Sheriff Ball had Hensley and Holes join him and left to investigate. At 3 o'clock this morning, persons residing near the scene of the tragedy heard a fusillade of shots. Investigation revealed the bodies of Ball and Hensley.

BADGER MEN NAMED TO STUDY DAM PLAN

Washington — (P) — Three engineers and two geologists were named Friday by Secretary Work, with the approval of President Coolidge, as members of a commission authorized by the recent congress to study the feasibility of construction of a dam by the government on the Colorado river either in Boulder or Black canyon.

They are: Major General William L. Slichter of Bowling Green, Ky.; Daniel Webster Reid of Madison, Wis.; Robert Ridgway of New York; Charles P. Boyer of New York; Warren J. Mead of Madison, Wis.

The commission is to examine the proposed site of the dam, review the plans and estimates and advise the secretary of the interior by Dec. 1, 1928, as to matters affecting the safety, the economy and engineering feasibility and advantages of the proposed structure and incidental waters.

Dallas, Tex. — (P) — Women carpenters as well as men were threatened with arrest here Saturday when they attempted to do work on a Baptist tabernacle, a construction of which has caused the suspension of two temporary injunctions and a passage in jail.

A second injunction was issued Friday when deputy sheriffs, who attempted to disperse a crowd of women workers, were informed the first injunction only ordered "them" to cease their activities.

Informing that the first injunction he issued failed to provide a means of stopping the women carpenters, Judge Towne Young revised his order to restrain "men, women or persons," from further work on the building, alleged to have been constructed in violation of city ordinances.

Staying the new injunction, the officers found the 30 odd women workers had quit for the day. The deputies were ordered to rigidly enforce their new orders Saturday.

Meanwhile the Rev. Earl Anderson, pastor of the church, close to remain in the county jail, after he was fined $100 and ordered to post a bond of $1,000 when Judge Young found him guilty of contempt of court for violating the injunction. The pastor said he would remain in jail until his protest against interruption of construction on the church had been heard throughout the country.

The Rev. J. Frank Norris, noted evangelist and pastor of the First Baptist church at Fort Worth, has announced he will continue to lead revival meetings at the church as long as his brother pastor remains in jail.

The French air mail company placed one of its planes at the disposal of the Italians. Acting on instructions from Rome, however, they declined the offer and will continue their flight to Rio Janeiro in their own plane when it is repaired.

The ambassador said the Italian Chamber of Commerce of Sao Paulo, Brazil, had offered a prize of $50,000 lire ($25,000) for a flight from Italy to Brazil and the aviators had made this flight with the consent of the Italian government and would not fly to Argentina.

FORMER FOE TO MEET AL IN NEW YORK

Standard Bearer Accepts Proffered Help of Missouri Senator

New York — (P) — Governor Smith was named on his chief opponent for the Democratic presidential nomination, Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, for all in the coming campaign.

The Senate leader, Reed, in an invitation to come to Albany as his guest and confer on the campaign. The letter was made public by Smith's headquarters here.

"Now that the storm of battle has cleared away," the governor wrote, "I hope that I can prevail upon you to spend a night at Albany at the executive mansion and confer with me on the campaign and how the campaign in which we are engaged to gather. Please let me know what your plans are for the near future so that we can perhaps get together soon."

BECK LAYS BLAME FOR INCOME TAXES AT DOOR OF STALWARTS

Candidate for Governor Says New Tax Schedule Puts Burden on Poor

Westby.—(P)—Congressman Joseph D. Beck today attacked the state's income tax law as "the first successful step toward Mellonizing Wisconsin." Mr. Beck, who is the LaFollette Progressive candidate for governor, spoke before an organization meeting of Progressives of Vernon county.

The income tax law, he said, "as drawn by Governor Zimmerman's man Rosa of the tax commission; introduced by Senator Smith, Stalwart leader in the senate; was supported by the Milwaukee Chamber of Commerce and the Wisconsin Manufacturers' Association; and by every Stalwart member in the assembly but three; and was signed by the Governor who was elected by the Stalwarts of the state."

"Now that it is known what this tax bill is doing to common folks, every Stalwart in the state denies having anything to do with it. It is a poor fatherless orphan."

The tax law, he said, as the price demanded by the Stalwarts for support they gave to the present governor. That price was not a reduction in taxes, but a shifting of their share of the burden on those least able to bear it.

"The deliberate purpose of the bill was to lift the burden off the rich and place it upon the backs of the poor, just as every Mellon tax bill in Congress has done."

"Mr. Rosa who drew the tax bill, said it was merely calculated to even up a few inequalities in the old law enacted under the Blaine administration."

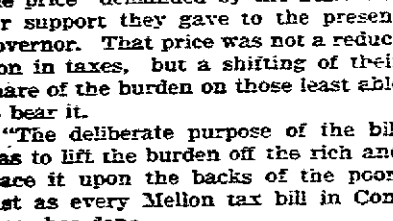

"When Blaine became Governor," Mr. Beck said, "he found that the taxes were annually levied for state purposes, $5,000,000 on farms and homes. Under the Blaine tax law, property of the state was not only relieved of this entire burden, but there were more than $3,000,000 paid back to counties than had ever been paid back before."

The Rosa bill, Mr. Beck, charged, took $1,000,000 tax off the corporations and $2,000,000 off the banks of the state, and levied a higher tax on individuals in the lower brackets.

"If a married man with three children had a net income of $2500 he paid no tax at all under the old law. Under the present law he pays $3.50. If his net income is $3,000 he paid $11.00 or an increase of 120 per cent. If his net income was $3500 his tax under the old law was $10. Under the new law it is $19.75 or an increase of 98 per cent. If his net income was $4000 his tax under the old law was $16.25. Under the new law it is $29.50. But if his net income is $10,000 his increase is only 2 per cent."

"A single man's tax with a net income of $1,200 is increased 12 per cent. If his net income is $1,500, his tax is increased 18 per cent. If his net income is over $2,500, his tax is increased from 17 per cent down to 13 per cent for $10,000."

SCOUTS EAGER FOR OFFICIAL OPENING OF THEIR LAKE CAMP

Program Is Completed for Dedication and Pageant Sunday Evening

Valley scouts are counting the hours before they go to Camp "Chickagami" on Lake Winnebago and enthusiastic youngsters from Neenah, Menasha and Appleton have been hiking to and from the camp to get a "Pre-Christmas" smell, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive. The camp officially opens after the dedication services and camp-fire pageant Sunday evening, July 8.

With the arrival of the camp staff at "Chickagami" things are "humming" to get ready for the dedication services, according to Mr. Clark. The kitchen and cupboards have been placed in order and the life corps has outlined the program for the first day at camp. The fireplace in the main camp building has been completed and the interior decorated.

A rustic fence is being built along the lake shore which is to be equipped with a gate for the convenience of the Red Cross life guard. Boys will not be allowed to pass the gate to go swimming until they have registered with the guard. A large section of shallow water near the shore is being marked with a heavy rope and cork buoys for non-swimmers, according to Mr. Clark.

Mr. Clark expects many people from Appleton, Neenah, Menasha and Kaukauna, will attend the dedication services Sunday afternoon and evening.

LEVITAN WANTS MORE RELIGION IN POLITICS

State Treasurer Thinks Churches Should Be Guides to Voters

Fond du Lac.—(P)—A practical application of religion to politics was declared the need of America by Solomon Levitan, state treasurer, in a speech here today.

Speaking before the Byron Camp assembly and the Epworth League Institute, Mr. Levitan asserted that "the churches have in their hands a great power for good government if they only know how to use it."

"If the church people of our country would use their ballots rightly they could wipe out graft and corruption and insure the election of high-minded, capable and public spirited men to office."

"But our church people are apparently no more diligent in the use of their ballots than the non-church goers."

Although not believing that the church should go into politics and from the pulpits instruct its members how to vote, Mr. Levitan suggested that the church "take its place alongside the press in informing its members about men and measures so that they may be able to form an intelligent opinion themselves; make a 'practical translation' of religion into everyday affairs of their nation."

"If every candidate for public were measured and weighed according to the standards of high ideals which our churches are striving to uphold, there would be little chance for self-seeking politicians to run our government."

ERECT 17 NEW TENTS AT BOY SCOUT CAMP

Seventeen new tents, 12 feet long by 10 feet wide were set up at Camp Chickagami, valley boy scout camp located at Lake Winnebago Friday. Each tent will be occupied by one patrol, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive. The tents are on a plateau east of the main camp building and overlooking the lake on the south side.

HOTEL ADDITION WILL BE FINISHED BY END OF AUGUST

Building Is to House Heating Plant and Laundry for Conway Hotel

The exterior structural work on the addition to the Conway hotel is rapidly nearing completion. The addition is a two story structure of reinforced concrete and brick, which includes a 130 foot smoke stack, tramway, tunnel, boiler room and laundry. The main building is 57 feet long and 29 feet 6 inches wide. The first floor will be occupied by two large boilers and the fuel bin, and the second will be used for the hotel laundry. New wash machines, soaking vats, pressing machines, and dryers are to be installed.

The tramway is being built from the addition to the main hotel building. It is five feet wide, seven feet high, and forty feet long.

A tunnel six feet high has been constructed from the boiler room to the hotel proper and will contain hot water and steam pipes. The structure will be ready for occupancy by Sept. 1, according to contractors.

WORKMEN START REPAIRS ON ONEIDA-ST BRIDGE

Workmen started Friday morning raising and repairing the sidewalk on S. Oneida-St bridge which was damaged when a caisson washed out. By Friday afternoon the walk and its supports had been raised 25 inches. Alcohol pressure jacks were used to lift the heavy structure.

After the upper part of the bridge has been repaired work will be started on the caisson. At the present time it is leaning at an angle of nearly 20 degrees. The base of the caisson, which was undermined by the fill and the caisson replaced in its original position.

U. W. ENCOURAGES HOME TALENT ACTORS

Extension Division Wants to Discover and Develop Community Entertainers

Madison—(AP)—“Home talent tournaments” is the latest suggestion by the University of Wisconsin extension division for the betterment of rural communities.

To discover and train home talent is the chief purpose of these tournaments.

Each group searches for its best talent and then helps train this talent. Pitting one group against the other provides a definite incentive for better work.

Home talent contests can be staged by a single community, by several communities, by a county or by a whole state. They may include music, dramatics, athletics, or novelty features and activities.

The extension points out some of the advantages of a tournament to a community:

Makes competition and cooperation possible, welds together special interests, provides good training, encourages long-time programs, stimulates change and adapts itself readily.

The accomplishments of a community depend largely upon the community itself.

The extension directors point to successful cooperation as a means of packing all interests of a group into a single purpose. “The more complete the cooperation the keener the competition.”

“We don’t think we can handle it,” organizers say, is the reason given by most of the communities who hesitate to adopt the tournament idea.

A few suggestions are offered for use by the local groups:

Select a director, find a good coach, get suitable material, select interested workers, set definite practice time and make the last practice public.

“Tournaments need not be limited to play. Debates, athletics, play days, spelling matches, and horseshoe pitching contests adapt themselves just as well to the idea.”

BADGER WARDENS ON TRAIL OF LAW BREAKERS

Madison—(AP)—More people were arrested for violation of the Wisconsin fishing, hunting and trapping laws during the fiscal year 1927-28 than in any previous year.

From confiscated goods, sold at public auction, $14,150.82 was realized and the commission has on hand $50 furs that have been confiscated since the last sale, May 17. In the year just completed there were more seizures of furs, particularly of beaver, than ever before. A total of 975 seizures of furs, guns, traps, fishing tackle and miscellaneous items were made.

Next to confiscated furs, confiscated fish nets run second and guns and rifles third. About three automobiles are taken every year but usually they are returned.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS AT Y. M. C. A. MEETING

Many nationally known Y. M. C. A. workers will speak and conduct sectional conferences at the International Conference of the Central Region Y. M. C. A. at Lake Geneva, July 13 to 15, according to G. F. Werner, general secretary.

Among the speakers at the three day session will be Edgar McCoy, president of the national Y. M. C. A. movement; L. E. McLachlin, secretary of the national committee of China; Dr. George Raizuel, instructor in international problems; V. M. Habibaksh, educational secretary, secretary of the Indian national council at Calcutta; Glenn P. Wishard, general secretary of Colombo; and Paul Chih Meng, general secretary of the Chinese Student Christian Association.

POSTAL SALES TOTAL $13,900 DURING JUNE

Receipts at the Appleton postoffice for June totaled $13,913.41 according to a report by H. J. Franck, assistant postmaster. This is an increase of $1,304.25 over June, 1927, when the receipts were $12,609.25. The sale of postage stamps during June netted $13,209.52 of the total month’s business. Other items of income for the month were: excess on sale of postage stamps, $6.63; second class postage, $406.64; postage on permit matter, $279.96; box rental, $1.15; miscellaneous, $9.51.

Starting with 500 members a “Personal Health Association” in England is giving instructions in the necessity for such things as pure air, sunlight, rest and suitable recreation.

FEW ERRORS IN SCALES USED BY MERCHANTS

Of a total of 317 scales and measures tested in June by Joseph A. Hodgins, city sealer of weights and measures, only 37 failed to measure up to the standards required for sealing, he said in his monthly report to the common council Thursday. Mr. Hodgins stated that 13 scales and measures were condemned, 7 were condemned for repairs and 17 were ordered adjusted. Mr. Hodgins also sealed 17 slot machines.

DAN SHOOT ARROWS TO RIGHT AND LEFT

Cupid Leaves String of June Brides Behind in Outagamie-co This Year

Dan Cupid has been winging his arrows of love right and left in Outagamie-co for the first six months of 1928 and records at the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk, show that he has set a new record for the number of marriage licenses issued in the first half of the year. The total of 213 licenses issued exceeds by 15 the highest number issued in the first six months of any of the last five years.

In the month of June there were 75 licenses issued, which exceeds by one the mark set in 1926. In 1927 there were only 67 licenses issued in June while in June, 1925, there were 55 issued and in June, 1924, 69.

The number of licenses issued during the first six months of each of the five years were: 1927, 187; 1926, 197; 1925, 177; 1924, 159.

WALTONIANS URGE HUGE PARK ON CANADIAN BORDER

Madison—(AP)—Wisconsin Izak Waltonites have joined with those of other states in the proposal to create an international wilderness playground, nearly 15,000 square miles in extent, to include the present Superior National Forest in Minnesota and the Quetico Forest in Ontario.

The full strength of the league has been enlisted in the campaign. The plan is to have Canada and the United States sign a treaty setting aside the two parks as an international playground. They adjoin each other. The region in question constitutes the drainage basin of the Rainy River, which flows into Hudson Bay. It is a country of innumerable lakes, great pine forests and wild life.

A vast labyrinth of waterways threads the Rainy River country. It is estimated that a canoeist could travel in the region for 10 summers without duplicating his routes. The efforts of the Walton League to have it set aside for recreational purposes in conjunction with the adjoining Canadian preserve mark the culmination of five years of interest.

DE PERE FAIR SIGNS MIDWAY ATTRACTION

The S. W. Brundage Shows have been procured for the midway of the Northeastern Wisconsin fair at Green Bay-DePere this year, according to Herb J. Smith, secretary of the fair association. Showing day and night, the fair will begin Aug. 28 and end Aug. 31.

The Brundage organization has seven rides, twelve shows and other entertainment features. It is composed of approximately 200 people, and twenty-five railway cars are required to transport the show. Animals of all kinds are with the show, including horses, mules, ponies, monkeys, and others.

The fair this year is expected to be the largest ever staged, according to Mr. Smith. The fair program in itself will last all day, and with the carnival management supplying the additional fun it should be pleasing to both old and young.

INCREASE CAPITAL STOCK OF GRAEF MFG. COMPANY

Capital stock of the Graef Manufacturing company of Appleton has been increased from 500 shares valued at $50,000 to 1,000 shares worth $100,000, according to an amendment to the company’s articles of incorporation which were filed Thursday with A. G. Koch, register of deeds. The change was approved at a meeting of stockholders several weeks ago. The papers were signed by Joseph W. Vergeen, president and treasurer and Lester A. Versteegen, secretary.

John D. Rockefeller, founder of the Standard Oil Company and the richest man in the world until he gave more than half a billion dollars away, passed another milestone on July 8, when he celebrated his 89th birthday. Here are four pictures showing him at different stages in his life. At the top is a picture taken this year. Just under it is Rockefeller as he looked at 65, just before he began to wear a wig. Under it is a picture of Rockefeller at 45, when he was just bringing Standard Oil to power. At the bottom is one of his few boyhood pictures, showing him at the age of 15.

ISSUE WARNING ON NEW $20 COUNTERFEIT NOTE

Warning was received at the Appleton post office Thursday of the discovery of a new counterfeit Federal Reserve note for $20. The note is drawn on the Federal Reserve bank of New York City of the 1914 series with the check letter F. The face plate number is indistinct but probably is 375 while the back plate number is very indistinct. The note is signed by Frank White, treasurer of the United States, and Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury. When the note is presented face up it is fairly deceptive but when presented face down the deception is easily seen.

AWARD CONTRACTS FOR SCHOOL REPAIRS

Numerous Repairs Are to Be Made This Summer in School Buildings

Contracts for painting, plumbing, concrete and weather-stripping for the public schools have been awarded, according to William J. Egert, supervisor of construction work.

Painting at the West and Fifth ward schools will be done by the Badger Painting company, at the senior high school by the Jackson Decorating company, at McKinley school by Sager & Krueger and at Jefferson school by William C. Nelson. Robert Schuch has the concrete contract for all the public schools and the bubbling contract for the senior high school has been awarded to Wenzel Bros. The Monarch Weather Stripping company will do the work at McKinley school, and the Chamberlain company at Washington and Rainier schools.

Sanding of floors at Lincoln school has been completed and Columbus school floors are being sanded now. The sanding is being done by the two new sanding machines, purchased by the board of education.

“CARRIER” BLAMED FOR BELOIT TYPHOID SCARE

Madison—(AP)—With the discovery of a “carrier” working with foodstuffs to whom the recent outbreak of typhoid in Beloit is laid, the epidemic has subsided, the state board of health reported today.

With elimination of the carrier, the outbreak which led to 14 cases subsided on scheduled time, two weeks being allowed for incubation and an additional period for diagnosis after developments of other disease. Numerous cases of the disease also were reported in towns surrounding Beloit.

Outside of Beloit, there was no special prevalence of communicable disease in the state during June. The board reported. Diphtheria was less than half the normal for the month, influenza practically subsided; measles was less than one fourth the normal, and for the first time in many months cerebro-spinal meningitis did not show and increase above normal. Scarlet fever was slightly above normal, whooping cough about half the usual prevalence, and true typhoid below normal.

STATE CAPITAL MECCA FOR BADGER NEWLYWEDS

Madison—(AP)—The honeymoon time at the state capital. No, the state officials and employees have not all gone away on wedding trips, rather, honeymooners are visiting the capital.

Among the hundreds of tourists who have been guided through Wisconsin’s state house within the last few weeks, many have remarked that they are including the seat of the state government in their wedding trip itinerary.

Capital guides claim that by picking out such tippers from a crowd of suit-seekers. They claim, however, that the honeymooners are behind the rest of the party being escorted, and cause a delay in completing the trip.

During the guides’ annual tour of inspection every hour, it is important to them that the movement through the building be made without unnecessary delay.

SCHOOL POPULATION INCREASED BY 123

6,772 Boys and Girls of School Age in Appleton, Annual Census Shows

A recent census of children in the city of Appleton between the ages of 4 and 16, taken by J. G. Pfaff, attendance officer, showed a total of 6,772, a gain of 123 over last year. The total includes 3,122 boys and 3,650 girls. There are 1,587 boys and 1,975 girls between the ages of 7 and 12 inclusive, which is the compulsory school age, and in the compulsory vocational school age, from 14 to 16 inclusive, there are 339 boys and 406 girls.

During the past year only 9 children between the ages of 7 and 14 failed to comply with the attendance law. Four parents were notified of violation of the school attendance law. Only one prosecution was made during the past year.

Seven farm laborers, each with 50 years’ or more service on the same farm or with the same master or mistress, were awarded premiums recently at Bury St. Edmunds, England, by the Suffolk Agricultural Society.

KEEFE READY FOR
LOESCHER HEARING
IN OSHKOSH COURTCounty Board Chairman Goes to Court for Hearing in Malfeasance Case

Menasha—According to District Attorney Keefe of Oshkosh the state is prepared to proceed with the preliminary examination of George A. Loesch, chairman of the Menasha County Board, Monday morning, July 9, on charges of malfeasance in office.

The examination will be held in the municipal court before Judge Goss, to determine whether the county official should be bound over to appear and enter a plea of guilty or not guilty to the charges against him.

The state witness who has been referred to by Mr. Keefe as the "key" witness, is in Oshkosh, the district attorney said. The man will be on the stand Monday to tell his story as to the conduct of county affairs in the years when the alleged offenses were committed. Mr. Loesch, according to the complaint in the action, was the county treasurer at the time the man has been brought to Wisconsin from California for examination, both prosecution and defense agreeing that it would not be advisable to proceed without his testimony in the preliminary examination.

Mr. Loesch was arraigned May 18 and the long adjournment was ordered at that time in order to permit the bringing of the California witness to Oshkosh.

Offenses charged date from Aug. 23, 1915, to Aug. 10, 1925, when it is claimed that Mr. Loesch, as chairman of the Sunnyside board had pecuniary interests in purchases and sales to Winnebago for personal property for the furnishing Sunnyside sanatorium and for the Hicks Memorial Home for Nurses.

These alleged pecuniary interests are listed for the various years, making a total of $9,468.86.

Digging common briars from hedges, wrapping the roots in straw, and hawking them from door to door as "rose-trees" is one of the newest forms of fraud.

Device Simplifies Use
Of Heart Beat Records

New York—(P)—A device that will enable any physician who has a phonograph to get the opinion of a specialist in diagnosing puzzling heart beats has been perfected in the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

The unit is a special pick-up which, without the assistance of expensive amplifying apparatus, brings to the doctor's ear from a phonograph record abnormal heart sounds and the comments of a specialist concerning them. The listener can then compare the case at hand with the various types of the abnormalities impressed on the disc.

Recalling that heart sounds were recorded on phonograph records two years ago, D. S. Blattner of the Laboratories' research staff points out that satisfactory electrical reproduction from the records was then possible only through the use of apparatus that was costly and not widely available.

"There was no objection to this apparatus from the standpoint of reproduction," he says, "but the electrical system with its vacuum tubes and filters was and is far too expensive for any very widespread use. In order that students and physicians all over the country could take advantage of the phonograph records of heart sounds some simple device was necessary."

"This meant that a special pickup must be developed having suitable characteristics and yet of small enough cost so that one could be included with each group of records. Other requirements, aside from cost, availability and faithfulness of reproduction, were that it must be relatively free from surface noise or 'needle scratch.' Also the sound should pass to the ear of the user through an acoustic stethoscope so as to duplicate the tone quality that he may be accustomed to hearing in practice."

The final form developed to meet these requirements is a small compact needle arm which conducts the sound from the record into the tube of the stethoscope. The listener holds the pick-up to the disc with his finger tips, which serve to dampen, or check, the vibrations. The volume is adjusted by means of a clamp fastened to the tube of the stethoscope.

CUBAN SUGAR MILLS
GRINDING NEW CROP

Havana—(P)—The wheels of Cuban sugar mills whirl with the grinding of the 1928-29 sugar crop. Restrictive laws fixing the amount of sugar to be ground and specifying the earliest date that each mill might start grinding have been lifted by President Machado, who declared there would be no restriction in grinding the 1928-29 crop. This permits each mill to begin grinding the new crop as soon as the old is cleared, where last year the mills had to comply with the law.

Recent reports indicate that most of the 172 mills in Cuba finished their grinding late in April and that 27 exceeded their quotas by 210,000 bags.

PAYS $2 FINE

PARTY SUFFERS REVERSE

Dallas, Tex., (P)—Texas Democrats seeking to check a bolt of persons dissatisfied with the nomination of Governor Alfred E. Smith, have met their first major reversal in an announcement that the names of candidates who said they would not support the New York executive, would remain on the July 23 primary ballots.

D. W. Wilcox, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, made this announcement Friday after national committeeman J. C. Adams had requested him to call a special meeting of the committee to place important party posts throughout the state in the hands of persons in sympathy with the national ticket.

While he said he was heartily in favor of Adams' proposition that candidates who would not support the national ticket be practically read out of the party, Mr. Wilcox stated that names of all candidates had been certified for the ballot several weeks ago and there was no legal way to take action against the "bolters."

FINISH CURES

YOU NEVER KNOW When this is going to happen

BACK of the street car a child has broken away from its mother. It darts out into the path of an oncoming motor car! The mother, thinking only of the impending danger to her child, dashes madly in pursuit, a shriek of warning on her terrified lips. Two lives are in the hands of the driver! Was he watching? Was he prepared for this common occurrence?

Behind each motionless street car lies danger.... AGONY.... DEATH!!! A thoughtless step.... a heedlessly driven motor car.... the sudden emergency.... a horrified pedestrian.... a shriek.... a thud. And then....

Somebody's mother or sister, wife or child, has been taken from them.... or crippled for life.

Pedestrians should never step out from behind a street car without looking first.... BUT THEY DO!

Drivers should never drive past the rear end of a street car, bound in an opposite direction, without slowing down to within complete control.... BUT THEY DO!

The moral is:
DON'T DEPEND ON THE OTHER FELLOW TO AVOID THE ACCIDENT....

WHERE JUSTICE FAILS

The supreme court of California has affirmed the conviction of William E. Hickman for the murder of twelve-year-old Marian Parker of Los Angeles. This means that the resources of the defense, so far as California is concerned, have been exhausted and Hickman is to hang. However, there is still the supreme court of the United States to which appeal may be made on some cooked-up bill of exceptions. The chances are ninety-nine in a hundred that this court would give the case scant consideration and refuse to interfere. This would terminate court action and leave executive clemency as the only hope of saving Hickman's life.

Six months have elapsed since the crime. If the appeal is taken to the supreme court of the United States more months will elapse. It may be a year before there is a final showdown with justice. A year is too long a time to deal with such cases. It is magnifying the importance of Hickman as a citizen, and his rights under the law and constitution, out of all reason. He is guilty of one of the foulest crimes ever committed. His life is worth no more than that of the lowest criminal or degenerate in the land. His notoriety is due solely to the horror of his deed.

If we had the proper criminal system in the United States, Hickman would have been executed within sixty days of the commission of his brutal murder. The courts would take instant cognizance of so extraordinary a crime and deal with it as its nature deserved. The supreme court would put other matters aside and dispose of it summarily. No fake devices of shrewd lawyers would be permitted to stall, delay or evade the law. By the time Hickman is hanged there will be a minimum of relationship of punishment to crime and a maximum of maudlin sympathy.

It is time our courts commenced to brush aside the legendary cobwebs of precedent, their pompous respect for technicalities and procedure and got down to brass tacks. The manner in which the Saccho-Vanzetti case was handled, the Renshaw case in Ohio, the Green Bay "fence" cases in Chicago, and a thousand others that could be easily cited, are making a farce of our courts and our whole system of justice.

ANOTHER AVIATION RECORD

Another record in aviation has been made. This time it was a flight by the Italian air aces, Ferrarin and Del Prete from Rome to Natal, Brazil, a distance roughly figured at 4,417 miles. Their objective was Buenos Aires, a distance of 7,000 miles. However, they have broken all records for long distance flying, which makes a trans-Atlantic hop look small in comparison. When the time comes that eight and ten thousand-mile flights are made, a journey from New York to London or Paris will seem like nothing. The Italian aviators were out two full nights and by a strange turn of fate, after crossing thousands of miles of ocean, they were compelled to come down because of a fog on land.

The other morning the news wires into the Post-Crescent carried fourteen aviation stories before nine o'clock. Undoubtedly aviation is receiving the world's major attention. Many accidents continue to occur, but progress is being made. In fact, the progress is so rapid it is hard to keep up with the achievements. What is a feat today is a commonplace tomorrow.

HONKERS IN BERLIN

The city of Berlin is conducting investigations to see if its automobile traffic cannot move with less honking of horns. Investigations conducted by the police show that the average driver sounds his horn, on a trip through the city, about five times as often as he really needs to. As a result, new police regulations are being prepared and the persistent horn-honker is going to be sat upon severely. Would that a few American cities could follow suit. The driver who honks his horn unnecessarily isn't exactly a menace, but he is one of the greatest nuisances our civilization has developed. Probably exterminating him would be too severe, but if it is possible to civilize him the job surely ought to be attempted. The horn on an auto is for emergency use only.

GOVERNOR MIGHT BE WRONG

Governor Zimmerman tells Mr. Coolidge Wisconsin is certain to go for Hoover. We should not like to assume Mr. Hoover's chances for salvation were equally certain. There is dirt in them hills all over Wisconsin. Mr. Blaine, Mr. LaFollette and their lieutenants know how to cultivate them hills. They are always full of dynamite. Which way they are going to explode in this election is not yet settled. The hills are waiting for the cue. Furthermore, if Wisconsin does not like its beer, where is there a state that does?

True, Wisconsin is normally Republican to the point of suffocation, but it has elected Democrats to the governorship and the senatorship. What has happened in the past can happen again. It is not a question of whether Wisconsin likes Hoover less, but whether it likes to kick over the traces more.

Even if it is true, as the governor is said to have told Mr. Coolidge, that Al Smith is allied with a coterie in New York opposed to the lakes-to-the-ocean waterway, the pet project of the Northwest, that would not necessarily move Wisconsin. It would be more important to serve the cause of "progress" than to serve the state's interests.

No, a Republican majority of 350,000 in Wisconsin is not to be relied upon when Blaineism and beer and light wines are involved. The governor should be careful lest he mislead the president. Mr. Coolidge as yet knows little of Wisconsin politics, except at long range, and at a distance it is deceiving.

SECRET CORNERS OF THE HEART

You never know about men. There are always secret places in their hearts which are not revealed to all and sundry.

The late Lord Curzon, for instance, during his lifetime was recognized as an immensely able, capable, industrious, scholarly statesman and administrator and cabinet minister. But he was deemed cold and cynical and supercilious.

It was thought the job of viceroy of India suited him to a T, because of the glamour and glitter and oriental magnificence that accompanied it.

But now comes his official biography, written by one of his life-long friends. And what do we find? Well, for one thing, Curzon, the simple human being, who fell head over heels in love with Miss Leiter of Chicago and was her ardent swain all his life. To her he poured out his soul.

To her he indited beautiful love letters long years after they were married and long after most husbands begin to be commonplace and workaday.

You see there was a secret corner in his heart and in it he burned candles to the loveliness of the woman who shared his joys and his sorrows.

A DRUG CZAR?

Old Mother Nature is a pretty good doctor, if allowed to have her own way; and, as a result, a lot of quack and near-quack physicians are getting rich in this broad land of ours.

Robert P. Fischelis, secretary of the New Jersey Board of Pharmacy, tells about it in the June issue of the American Druggist. He says that Americans are spending millions of dollars yearly on worthless remedies, which "get by" because sooner or later they get the credit for cures which mother nature herself effects.

He urges the creation of an Institute of Pharmacy, headed by a "drug czar," which would unmask useless preparations that mask as remedies.

It sounds like a good idea. The American people have a strong tendency to spend their money on highly advertised cures. Perhaps somebody ought to help them outgrow it.

WHOOOPS ARE DEAR

A little boy with whooping cough, writes a young mother, got near my year old baby today and I just heard the baby cough. Please tell me what to do if he gets whooping cough. I brought the baby right home and gave him a dose of castor oil. I hope I did right. I followed your advice about feeding my baby and the results have been fine. Now I am in hopes that you may tell me how I can prevent the baby from coming down with the disease. (M. A.)

In communities with well administered public health departments, whooping cough patients are isolated ("quarantined") for not less than four weeks, in some towns six weeks. This is a fair and reasonable measure of protection for the public. Sometimes public health authorities go to ridiculous extremes in dealing with this disease; for example, the Michigan state health board requires disinfection of clothing and premises before the patient released from isolation, and as though that were not absurd enough, forbids public funerals in deaths from whooping cough. This is a sad instance of hold over of medieval superstitions, perhaps under pressure of the interests that profit from the disease. Whooping cough is caused by a specific bacillus. The germ is given off in the mouth spray or discharges from nose and throat. There is absolutely no ground for the assumption that the clothing or the premises, the walls, floor or furniture, can be the means of spreading the disease. Isolation of the patient during the period of communicability is the only fair and reasonable measure of prevention. Whooping cough infection occurs precisely in the same manner as diphtheria infection does.

Where isolation ("quarantine") is not enforced, the whooping cough patient should be required to carry a yellow flag or wear around the sleeve a conspicuous yellow label marked whooping cough. This is a fair warning to susceptible persons to keep their distance.

Should this young mother's baby develop whooping cough, and perhaps die of the disease, the parents of the little boy who gave the baby whooping cough should be held responsible. If the parents can set up a plea of ignorance or extenuation in the rules or methods of the local health authorities, then the local health authorities are clearly inculpated and ought to be punished for their part as accessory.

Every mother should know that the incubation period, as we call it, of the disease, from the moment of infection or inoculation to the first symptom of illness, is generally two weeks in whooping cough. If 15 days pass without any signs of illness it is certain the child is not coming down with the disease. The young mother need not worry about the cough she heard when she brought her baby home. If the baby is going to have the whooping cough he will not manifest the slightest sign of disturbed health until more than 10 days have passed.

Whooping cough is apparently not communicable during the incubation period, but is most likely to spread in the early stage of the illness, a period of a week or 10 days when the patient has just an ordinary cough and before a characteristic whoop or spells of spasmodic coughing develop. Here is yet another reason why people should respect the cry and never take "cold" seriously.

If it were my young son I'd give him the whooping cough "vaccine" right now, in reasonable hope of preventing the disease. Any physician is prepared to administer whooping cough "vaccine."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Water in Lungs
First aid instructor said "don't worry about water in the lungs of a person rescued from drowning, as there is no water there to remove." But in a conversation with this, my friend wrote to a medical expert, a pathologist, who replied: "If death is caused by shock, no water is present in the lungs. If death is caused by asphyxia, there is some water in the lungs." Now whatever "shock" may mean. (B. L. S.)

Answer: I don't know what it may mean. But I think it narrows down to this. In some cases water is found in the lungs. In others none is found. Where none is found, "shock" is assumed. I believe such a statement of air or oxygen is sufficient to account for death in any case of drowning. But if the proper first aid is applied when a person is rescued from submersion, one need not worry about water in the breathing passages, for if there be any water or other fluid present it will drain from the mouth by gravity—provided the victim's head is not lifted upon a hand or forearm (as many organizations erratically teach).

WHAT EVERY BRIDE KNOWS

HASKIN WRITES TODAY

A GOLF VETERAN FROM ENGLAND

Washington, D. C. — Americans are shortly to have an opportunity to see the man who was the sensation of the recent British Amateur Golf Championship. He was not the winner of the event, but he upset the favorite, and he carried Roger Wethered to the twenty-first hole in the semifinals. His playing attracted far more attention than that of Perkins, the ultimate winner of the championship, not only because of the general excellence of his game, but because he is a man of sixty years of age.

Beaumont Pease is the name of this new star in the golf firmament. Thirty years or so ago he ranked among the leading amateurs of England, but he has not played in any of the major tournaments since 1905. Indeed, it is stated that in recent years he has played golf only very occasionally and solely for recreation. Never thinking of entering one of the gruelling contests that now feature the game. He is a man of large affairs, being the chairman of Lloyds Bank and a director of numerous stock companies, and does not have the time to devote to the game that is supposed to be necessary to keep a player in form to be a real contender in a championship.

When Mr. Pease's name was listed as one of the entrants in the British Amateur no one considered him seriously. Even his friends who knew the brand of golf of which he is capable hardly expected him to qualify and the golf writers did not give him a look-in. He was not lucky in the pairings and was forced to meet a succession of some of the best players in the tournament, and naturally that figured him to be eliminated promptly.

But Mr. Pease had a surprise in his golf bag, along with his highly efficacious set of clubs. One after another he took on the cracks and it was he who did the eliminating until he met Wethered. All of them were young men, among them being Sir Ernest Holderness, a former British champion.

GAVE WETHERED A GREAT FIGHT

When the veteran met Wethered, another former champion who is well known in this country, there was far more interest in the match than in any other of the entire week. Mr. Pease had made his game respected and feared and it had begun to look as though he might even take Wethered's measure.

And he came within an ace of doing it, too. He gave the younger man a great fight and the score of his life and it is quite probable that it was

DISCUSSES THE VALUE OF ULTRA-VIOLET RAYS

BY DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

During the past few years newspaper health columns, popular magazines and much advertising matter have urged on the public the importance of plenty of sunlight not only for the purpose of preventing rickets in growing children, but also for such general effects as sunlight may have in building up the resistance of the body to infectious disease.

It is known that sunlight acts up on the substance exposed to produce within it vitamin D. Hence already there are available in drug stores concentrated preparations of vitamin D made in this manner. Furthermore, Steenbock of Wisconsin developed a method for extracting from ultra-violet rays coming from intense sources of such energy, and in this way supplying the body with its vitamin D.

Numerous methods are available for storing directly to those who wish to concentrate sunlight from ultra-violet rays apparatus.

Many physicians have viewed with alarm the possibility that too much vitamin D will thus be available, not able of championship golf at any time.

That they are coming over here to exhibit the best brand of golf they've got, goes without saying, for the British would rather capture the United States Amateur crown than any other golfing honor in the world. They have not relished the manner in which American golfers have carried off so many British championships in recent years, and they are keen to even the score a bit. It left the transatlantic cousins to whom golf is so ancient a game to have a country where it is comparatively new develop so speedily so many of the most proficient players the sport has ever known.

Perkins, who heads their 1928 string of players, is said to be an unusual golfer in that his is a game without brilliancy. In the championship contest which he but lately won he did not make a single extraordinary shot, it is stated. Every shot was just what it should have been. None was notably long. None was a remarkable recovery because he didn't need anything of that kind. He made no poor shots and was never in trouble. He simply started out to go from tee to cup by the most direct and without any unnecessary strokes and he accomplished precisely that.

That kind of a game is extremely dangerous in a tournament. It is practically automatic, and it not only disconcerts but wears down an opponent who has the least bit of temperament in his make-up. Harry Vardon is another Englishman who used to play that kind of golf. The British are expecting great things of Perkins and the Americans who meet him are forewarned not to underestimate his ability.

WILL PLAY IN AMERICA

Mr. Pease is coming to the United States the latter part of July as the captain of the British Senior's Team which is to play the American Senior in matches similar to those played by the British and American Cup. He will probably play in the United States Amateur, as will all the members of the British Walker Cup Team.

This invasion of England's finest golfing talent promises to be the most formidable one in recent years. Perkins, their new champion, is their main hope, of course, but there will be several of them who are capable of growing children but to the public in general, and that harm may result from overexposure.

In Germany recent investigations have dealt with the question of how much vitamin D is dangerous. Feeding experiments on rats and mice indicated that the fatal dose is very large indeed, about ten thousand times the dose necessary to heal disease.

In human beings at least twenty times the usual dose daily over a long period of time would be necessary to induce serious symptoms. Obviously therefore the damage is not great so far as we now know from the amount of ultra-violet rays irradiated foods, or vitamin D that the human being may receive.

VITAMIN KINSHIPS

It is, of course, possible that relationships between the vitamins are important, and that too much of one with too little of another may produce effects of which we now have no knowledge.

It is possible that the anxiety of manufacturers in promoting these things may lead them to place on the market far too many irradiated products and thus affect the infant to its advantage.

It is well to go well to avoid the danger of actual knowledge before considering the employment of such foods and methods as panacea.

New York — New York's most delightful dwelling places are not discernible to the man on the street. To view them and admire them he must climb upon a high building and look down. For Manhattan's really charming homes are on the city's rooftops.

Rooftops are today the most valuable location; they bring the highest rents and are most carefully designed. Mounting a tall building is the mid-fifties and looking down one finds a strange city of delightful little stucco houses perched "far above the world, so high." Going about the city streets it is impossible to so much as suspect their presence. They are like the quaint and colorful little homes pictured about the Mediterranean. They are painted in pastel shades and gay colors. Al about on the broad roof expanses are garbans and trees and little walks and even fountains. Flowers gaily blossom and the transplanted so gives forth its green grass.

The story goes of a man who was observed taking a lawn mower up to a passenger elevator. When the bewildered fellow passengers asked what he was doing, the "sky-line commuter" replied: "I'm just going up to cut the lawn."

They tell me that houses will soon occupy every available roof. Even business blocks are beginning to acquire them. Their desirability lies chiefly in the fact that they are above the dirt belt, dodge the city's noises and insure fresh air — and, of course, they are cottages, that which nothing is rarer.

One of the leading Fifth Avenue "smart shops" now advertises "roofs for dogs." For it seems that ritzy purps of the Fifth Avenue and Park Avenue belts will hereafter be expected to be subject to changing styles, as surely as are their wealthy masters. Having a stylishly dressed bound is seemingly as important as having a monogrammed card or a liveried servant. The very French fashions in dog toys run into considerable money. And there are special styles for each sort of dog. Thus well-dressed bull would not be caught dead in the outfit of a Pekinese, insurance.

The land-locked New Yorker invariably turns his footsteps toward park lakes with the first breath coming summer. The initial breeze invariably finds the park be houses stormed by eager crowd while the canals are blocked w rowers.

Not the least fantastic sight to be seen in Gotham is a peacock preening its feathers in the heart of a ghetto. On any sunny day, the he of Second Avenue, with its faint, vor of the European, is colored the great fantail of this bird as struts up and down in the courtyard of the Church of St. Mark on Boverie. It is sole occupant of a yard and from all over the East come the children of Italy, Hungary and Palestine to press their noses the fence and look upon the peacock their young eyes have beheld.

wax-dyed fabrics that have lately become popular in America. Wax-dyeing is a process of dyeing fabric by hand after a pattern is formed, covering a part of the cloth with wax so that it resists the action of the dye. For example, take for your pattern a yellow butterfly sitting on a green leaf. Use yellow cloth, and with a paint brush dipped in wax, draw the butterfly and cover it with the wax. Dip in green dye. The wax covering the butterfly will resist the action of the dye. After the fabric is dry, draw the wax and cover with hot wax. Dip the fabric in a dye you wish for your background. Neither leaf nor butterfly will take the color. When dry, wash in gasoline to remove wax and process is complete.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

NATHANIEL, DANN, struggling artist, is engaged to VIRGINIA BREWSTER, whose father is a prominent Wall Street financier. After losing his fortune in speculation, BREWSTER dies suddenly and leaves his daughter penniless.

NIEL urges VIRGINIA to marry him at once, but an old family friend, FREDERICK DEAN, and his daughter CLARISSA persuade her to make her temporary home with them. This angers NIEL, for he suspects DEAN's motives and does not like CLARISSA. He returns to his work and quarrels with his model, CHIRI, who is jealous of VIRGINIA.

Meanwhile, VIRGINIA is puzzled and unhappy in her new home. She resolves to tell NIEL her fears, but when she phones his studio in the evening CHIRI answers. She tries to fight suspicion but she cannot bring herself to call him again.

That evening at dinner CLARISSA places VIRGINIA beside her father at the table — to the obvious discomfort of a MRS. FARLEY, who apparently resented the presence of VIRGINIA in the DEAN home. After dinner VIRGINIA went to her room, leaving the others to play cards.

Now GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX

"I'm afraid you will find me dull company this evening," Frederick Dean remarked to Mrs. Farley when ClariSSa and Russell had gone.

She smiled at him, a superior smile.

"On the contrary," she said evenly, "you are going to be very exciting company."

Mr. Dean allowed a flicker of apprehension to appear in the gaze he turned upon her. He had caught something vaguely portentous, even threatening in her level tone.

"Then you didn't stay for parchesi?" he asked blandly.

"When have we ever played parchesi?" she countered. "Don't pretend to be stupid, Frederick; you are well aware that the game we have played is not so innocuous as that."

"Were we playing a game, Helen?" His tones dripped innocence, but his eyes evaded her searching scrutiny of his face.

"Yes, Frederick, we were," she answered unemotionally, "and now I think it is time to declare the winner."

Dean reached over to a nearby stand and helped himself to a cigarette from a lacquered box.

"Thank you," Mrs. Farley said and put out a hand. He gave her the cigarette and understood that she knew he was disturbed to the point of forgetting his manners.

He took another cigarette for himself but he did not neglect to touch a match to hers before lighting his own. This was going to be a game of wits, he realized and he had lost the first point by letting her see that he was "worried."

For half a minute they smoked in silence. It was the first to speak.

"We're there any stakes?" he asked, striving to speak lightly.

"Important ones," she declared instantly. "I thought right along that I had more to win than you had, Frederick, but since meeting Miss Brewster I have reached a different conclusion."

"Meaning . . .?"

"That I am sure you regret the game now. Sweet child, isn't she?" Then with a sudden show of confidence, she added: "You know, I think I can understand how you feel. It must be like drinking at a fountain of youth to possess a girl like Miss Brewster."

"What are you talking about?" he shot at her quickly.

"Don't lose your temper, dear," she warned him sweetly: "though I understand that, too. I felt angry myself earlier in the evening, but I'm wise enough to know that it will do no good. I've decided we can settle the matter amicably."

"I can't see that there's anything to settle," he replied instantly on guard.

"No?" she asked on a singing inflection. "That's unfortunate, for both of us, Frederick, for a scandal would not be any more to my taste than to yours. I can't afford one."

"Scandal!" Dean fairly exploded the word.

"Or proper balm for a wounded heart," Mrs. Farley announced decisively.

"Helen! Good heavens, are you blackmailing me?"

"What an ugly word, Frederick! Don't you think it would be nicer to consider that Miss Brewster is worth what it will cost to wipe the slate clean?"

"There's nothing on the slate to wipe off; I'm not a fool, Helen. I didn't expect anything like this, but I've always been careful about women. You are no exception."

"There aren't any love letters, that's true, Frederick. But there are witnesses at my apartment. And you know, even if I failed to win a breach-of-promise suit, the mere fact that I filed one would be ruinous to you. You must remember, dear heart breaker, that I am a woman of your own social set and a little smoke from my tiny blaze would mean more than a bonfire that any outside might ignite. In other words, I am above suspicion."

"But you haven't a reason for doing anything of that nature," Dean protested heatedly. "Never spoke to you of marriage, Helen."

"I'll admit that, Frederick, as we have no witnesses, but you know I expected you to. You'd have done it, too, if you hadn't seen a chance to buy a new model."

"I don't understand you," he retorted stiffly.

"Oh, yes you do, Frederick. You understand me perfectly, even if I was common. Miss Brewster has lost her fortune and you believe that she won't be so glib enough to marry a struggling artist if you offer your hand and fortune."

"You must be out of your mind, Helen, to say such things."

"You must be out of yours if you think I'm blind. And don't you suppose ClariSSa knows what you're up to? That's why she tilted at me at dinner. She thought she had me down, else she wouldn't have given me this opportunity with you. But she underrated me, Frederick. I know when I've lost. I'm ready to settle the score and call it a day."

"And if there is no settlement . . .?"

"Scandal! Or perhaps just a word or two to Miss Brewster about certain occasions in the past . . . that might suffice to save my feelings and spare me the publicity I don't want any more than you do."

"You win," he said sharply. "That is, if you intend to be reasonable. For it's blackmail, whatever you may call it. You haven't a shred of evidence and I doubt if Miss Brewster would listen to your confidences, but I realize, as well as you do, that it is unnecessary to be proved guilty to be condemned."

"That's sensible, Frederick. My demands will not be excessive, considering what I have to suffer, for you know, dear, I really was quite fond of you . . . in spite of your wealth."

"Like hell you were," Dean rasped. "You'll have to pardon that, Helen, but since you're acting like a crook, you must be prepared to listen to plain truths," he added bluntly.

"Plain figures on your check will do the trick, darling."

White with anger, Frederick Dean went to a desk and got out a check-book. A moment later Mrs. Farley was calmly tearing a slip of paper into bits.

"Double," she said firmly, "and you'll win."

Trembling, but forcing himself to silence, Dean wrote out a new check.

Mrs. Farley folded it into a tiny jeweled vanity case she was carrying. "I'm truly sorry it turned out this way, Frederick. I was thrilled at the thought of marrying you. You're funny, and there isn't the trace of a heart anywhere in your well-preserved body. And you had the power to strike fire in me. That's a great deal to lose."

She was staring away from him, down the years, and for all the brightness of her exterior there was a wasteful quality in her cultivated voice that made no appeal to Frederick Dean. He hated her fiercely at that moment; she had bested him, criminally perhaps, but he did not mind her method. The mere fact that he was bested enraged him. He was not accustomed to it.

"Showy she got to her feet. 'I wish you took, Frederick, that I don't imagine you'd come to have an easy victory with Miss Brewster. Sorry to have spoiled the evening you so planned to have alone with her but I wouldn't try to rush her if I were you.'"

"No doubt your advice is valuable; you have managed your own affairs so capably," Dean observed ironically. "I think, however, that I shall not require it."

"Perhaps not. Well, give me a parting kiss old sweetheart, and don't forget me too soon."

He drew back as she moved nearer to him and she laughed teasingly. "Come along and see me out, then," she invited and moved toward the door. "You see, I'm determined to please you in some manner, so I'll leave you."

As he opened the outer door for her he caught a glimpse of a familiar figure passing before the house.

He was helping Mrs. Farley into her car when the figure turned and, so far as to pick up the receiver and traced the call and noisily headquarters. Mrs. Crenon explained the situation, after recovering from a traffic cop and a half dozen shock and Earl went to church accompanied by a policeman.

Greatest 6 Months in Willys-Overland History!

Willys-Knight and Whippet sales already exceed total for 1927

2,000,000 Cars and Going Strong!

JULY marks the production of the two-millionth automobile by Willys-Overland. This event happily coincides with the culmination of the greatest 6 months in the company's 20-year history.

Production during the half-year just completed greatly exceeded the entire output of 1927. This unit volume now makes Willys-Overland the industry's third largest producer.

The reasons are plain:—

In the 4-cylinder Whippet the public is getting a light car value absolutely without parallel. Stylish, roomy bodies; tremendous power; BIG 4-wheel brakes; silent timing chain; full force-feed lubrication, and many other features.

The new Whippet Six is the world's lowest priced 6-cylinder car . . . and its surpassing quality is a matter of common knowledge. Demand has always exceeded production. Its powerful engine is equipped with 7-bearing crankshaft, Invar-strut pistons, silent timing chain. Force-feed lubrication. The Willys-Knight Standard Six offers the exclusive advantages of the patented Willys-Knight double sleeve-valve engine at the lowest price in history. The Special Six and Great Six complete this masterly line of highest quality motor cars.

Whippet Four-cylinder Touring $455; Roadster (2-pass.) $435; Roadster (with rumble seat) $525; Coupe $535; Cabriolet Coupe (with convertible top) $595; Coach $535; Whippet Six Touring $610; Roadster $685; Coach $695; Coupe $695; Standard Six Coupe $1095; Sedan $1305; Touring $925; Roadster $995. Judge Says World Needs Training For Happiness

Chicago—Courses in home-life are the crying need of American schools, in the opinion of Judge Mary M. Barthelme of Chicago, Judge of America's oldest and largest Juvenile Court.

"It is this generation's child, who preserve or break up home life, the bulwark of American," she asserted.

"Therefore the children of today should know the economics and ethics of home life. They should realize that beauty, peace and sympathy are the best products of family life and come only through mutual 'give and take.' A thought to others, a sense of responsibility and a willingness to lend a hand or eat are necessary ingredients of home happiness. Schools must teach this."

FIFTEEN YEARS OF WORK
Judge Barthelme, white-haired, motherly, has spent the past 15 years untangling lives that have come to grief.

Thousands of delinquent children and hundreds of unhappy women have been rehabilitated through her efforts. She gets them jobs, looks after their clothes so they can have self-esteem when looking for jobs, adjusts them to new environments and often gives substantial financial aid to keep homes together, so firmly does she believe in home life. Last year she administered $2,500,000 to mothers and widows.

"Times are so complicated now that we all need training to insure success. I believe children should be taught that they need training for happiness just as much as for a job. I believe every child, boy or girl, should feel he must have a trade or profession and work towards it."

It is not only for the good of society that Judge Barthelme speaks. It is because she loves the children she serves. During the 30's she gave up a lucrative teaching job to study law because she felt she could help children more that way. She has been in children's work ever since, being elected to the bench in 1923, the first woman so honored by being given a salary equal to men justices, $15,000 yearly.

SHE ADOPTED TWO
Having no children of her own—she is unmarried—Judge Barthelme adopted two babies and is raising them herself. She admits she tries out her experiments on them. Some of her maxims are:

"Develop a sense of family responsibility from infancy."
"There is no protection for the young in ignorance. Be frank about life; its beauty, its seriousness, its joy."

"Teach children that happiness can be no accident. One prepares for it by carving a niche for himself both at home and in work."

"No woman can do too much to build up and preserve a home for herself and her family. Woman's place is no longer just the home. Still, the home is her special province. Still, the school that makes children home-conscious—in the sense of feeling pride and joy in helping to make a home—is the ideal school."

BREAKFAST—Apricots, cereal, cream, toasted salt codfish with broiled tomatoes, "cheated" rolls, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Jellied bouillon, radishes and ripe olives, baked carrots, Boston brown bread and butter sandwiches, jelly roll, milk, tea.

DINNER—Stuffed and rolled round steak, chard greens with tomato sauce, banana and nut salad, custard pie, milk, coffee.

Whenever it's possible to bake vegetables the cook will find it very much worth her while to do so. None of the goodness of the vegetable is lost in the water in which the vegetable was boiled, but all the flavor and valuable mineral salts are brought out.

BAKED CARROTS
Five or six new carrots, 1 medium sized onion, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1/2 teaspoon sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons butter, few grains pepper.

Wash and scrape carrots and cut in quarters lengthwise. Place in a well buttered casserole. Peel and mince onion. Sprinkle carrots with minced parsley and onion. Season with salt and sugar and dot with butter. Cover casserole and bake in a moderate oven about one hour. Remove cover for last 15 minutes and increase heat to brown slightly.

TRICOLOR'S IMPORTANCE
Red, white and blue is effectively carried out in a white pleated skirt, smart and jacker with blue scarf, blue sports shoes and blue and red hat.

COBALT BLUE

MARYE and "MOM" Their Letters

Dear Marye:
You know me pretty well, daughter, for you realized I would not care for your plan to become a mannequin. It has really quite upset me.

If you must have a job, I think you could find something more important and more soul-satisfying than parading around all day like a peacock, catering to the vanity of women who have nothing to do but spend money on themselves.

It isn't, you understand, that I have anything against mannequins, but it just seems to me an empty sort of a job, whose only recommendation would be that you really had to have work.

I don't want to dictate to you, and you wouldn't let me if I did. But if I can object, I wish you would not insist on going into Madame Elise's shop. I can see how he might think it was quite the wrong environment for you.

When you were little, and I had my hands full of housework, family sewing, and caring for you, I used to think how marvelous it would be to have time—just to have two hours that I could waste without feeling things pile up to be done. It never occurred to me that I was fortunate to be kept so occupied. But maybe I was.

I expect to have a busy week myself, making strawberry preserves and finishing my coat. I suppose it seems perfectly natural for you to buy preserves, pastries, and pickles, but I just couldn't.

I would find very uncomfortable if I could not go into my own cellar and see a fair supply of canned fruit put up with my own hands. Just as you would have been unhappy as a child, without the cookie jar that I always kept filled even now.

All that is part of being an old-fashioned woman, I suppose. And yet there is a sort of peace and completion about routine household tasks that I should miss.

I'm not scolding or moralizing. I just want you to be happy. Write often.

MOM.

Household Hints

SWEET CORN
Corn on the cob is sweeter when cooked in the husk. Open back, pull out the silks and the shut again with string. Shuck just before eating.

STUFFED PRUNES
Seeded prunes, stuffed with cream cheese, nuts and pimento, make a delicious and hearty salad for summer suppers.

LEFT-OVER PIDDINGS
Breakfast foods make delicious puddings when the left-overs are used with milk, raisins or cocoa nut, just as bread pudding is made.

BAKED EGG PLANT
Eggplant is delicious when baked. Peel, cut in squares, put in layers in a baking dish, and season with butter, salt and paprika and bake.

DESTRESS SWEETING
Soak old newspaper in water, tear into bits and sprinkle over carpets before sweeping. They absorb the dirt and dust.

CHAMOIS GLOVES
When washing chamois gloves, add a teaspoonful of olive oil to the water. This keeps them soft and pliable.

CLEAN ICE BOX
Never put food loose in an ice box. Use dishes for everything, or bags, and your ice box will stay clean.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS—

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS—

Shoes Are Dainty And Chic In New Materials And Cut

Red and white are the Prince of Wales shoes worn by the smiling lady. The high heeled sandal in the upper left insert is of Roman striped faille.

BY JULIA BLANSHARD

New York—When Midway puts her best foot forward this summer, it's more than likely will be gracefully shod in a novelty shoe.

For the most stylish footprints on the sands of chic this summer are as individual as imported costumes, as daintily colorful as accessories and as fully as decorative as the flowers she wears on her shoulder or hat.

Shoes are definitely in the style class now. Styles change often, new materials flood the market, original cuts and designs, offer models for every conceivable taste.

But the bizarre shoe, the extremely ornate one or the glaringly gaudy one is not the correct shoe. As all women's modes have grown subtle in their femininity this summer, shoes have followed suit.

MANY DIFFERENT MATERIALS
The outstanding style features of new shoes for hot weather wear is the diversity of materials. Practically any materials used for frocks now fashion shoes. Pique in soft colors, printed kids, palliative straws, crepe de chine, all fine reptilian skins, kids, hand-blocked linens, reps, faille silks, shantung, embroidery, and even lace fashion shoes.

The staunch materials make the whole shoe, except for trim, while the more fragile fabrics fashion inlaid, serifs, pumps, or panels on the shank and heel.

Purse, hats and shoes should have some definite relation this summer, though they need not match exactly. And shoes may add the final touch in color.

For the beach, with a soft golden tan Chinese brocade sports frock, for instance, the smart girl is apt to wear a pair of Prince of Wales ox-fords, in white buckskin with the shank, tip and narrow saddle of red calfskin. A big, roomy handbag has its intricately hand-worked surface embroidered in reds, tans and orange, with the handle of red. The hat, of course, might be faced in red to match.

A new lattice straw of black-white weave in stunning double checks is posed over white kid and trimmed with black and white kid in a new pair of one-strap dressy sports sandals. The white kid strap, black-edged, buckles neatly at the front. The high heel is white. A new purse makes a set of these, in the same straw over white kid. It is one of the latest pouch envelopes, lined with white watered silk.

SMARTEST ORNAMENT
Tricolor is eminently correct this summer. The newest version of it uses red, white and blue to outline the top of a smart opera pump of white kid and to fashion a bow—the season's smartest single ornament—in front. Two narrow stripes of color gracefully down the high, white heel.

Newest of the new is the Roman striped sports sandal in a fine silk faille that brings into play the newest bright red, orange and combines them with tans and stylish brown. It has tan kid trim, and one of the new sandals low heels.

For summer garden parties, for bridge on the country club porch and for other nice and dressy afternoon affairs there is a lovely new pique, in soft, light green color, fashioned in the dressy, novelty, open-shanked sandal style. It has hand cross-stitching in softly colorful flowers across its vamp. Its edges are all green kid, in matching color and the slenderizing T-strap fastening is of twisted kid.

BOOKS YOU NEED WHEN YOU LEAVE FOR EUROPE

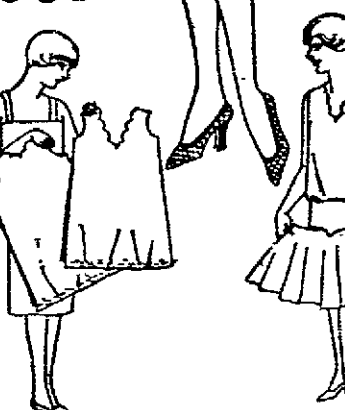

If you're going to Europe this summer and if you hate and despise guide books, don't put the famous Clara Laughlin series in the same category of despised things. You surely know "So You're Going to Paris," "So You're Going to France," "So You're Going to England," "So You're Going to Rome," and if you don't know them and decide to become acquainted you'll find yourself going even if you have to wade or paddle across.

The books are as readable as fiction and as practical as bread and butter when you're hungry. Chatty, gossip, intimate personality paragraphs, potted paragraphs of directions for reaching the unique, the out-of-way spot or sight you never would have thought of without the book. I remember that the book told just what to write on a slip of paper to give to a guard and detainee in order to visit the private boudoir of Marie Antoinette, usually closed to the public. It worked, though I haven't an idea what I wrote. Get the books and go to Europe. Only wish I could go with you!

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY. THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE big giraffe stopped very quick. The hunter cried, "I've turned the trick. My lasso dropped down over his head and he can't get away. I'll find out now if he is tame, 'cause maybe he can furnish us with some new sport today."

"Just treat him friendly," Cloway cried. "Go up and pat him on the side. That always is the proper way to treat dumb beasts, I've heard. There isn't anything to fear. We Tynymites will wait back here." Then, as the hunter walked up close, a funny thing occurred.

The big giraffe slumped to the ground, pined up his ears and looked around. And then he tried to bite the rope that hung around his neck. One Tyny shouted, "Hey, look out! He is a wild giraffe, no doubt, and if he starts to bite you, you will surely be a wreck!"

Of course this made the hunter laugh. He walked right up to the giraffe, and handed him an apple, which the Tynies thought discreet. Soon Scouty loudly shouted, "Ger, he's just as friendly as can be." And then they saw the queer giraffe jump quickly to its feet.

The hunter shortly led him near and all the bunch began to cheer. "Come, pet him," cried the hunter. "You can see he's very tame." It gave the whole bunch quite a thrill to do it, as the beast stood still. "Aw, we aren't scared," said Cloway. "Everyone of us is game."

"Say, we could have a dandy time if on his back we all could climb!" "Go right ahead," the hunter cried. "I'm sure he will not mind." No sooner said than it was done. The Tynies climbed on, one by one, and soon the whole bunch left the smiling hunter far behind.

MISS SIBLEY RESIGNS AS ASSISTANT C. C. SECRETARY

Miss Mable Sibley, assistant secretary of the chamber of commerce since it was organized in 1925, Friday resigned her position here to become affiliated with the Kenosha Chamber of Commerce which is managed by Hugh G. Corbett, former secretary of the Appleton chamber. Miss Sibley probably will leave her work here the latter part of this month.

Miss Sibley became connected with the chamber soon after the appointment of Mr. Corbett as secretary. In the eight years with the organization she was given increasing responsibilities and frequently represented the chamber at conventions and meetings. Miss Sibley also was prominently identified with Appleton Business and Professional Women's club and is a member of the state board of that organization.

TWO ORCHESTRAS SUNDAY AT WAVERLY

AGED INDIAN WAS FIRST CHOICE FOR COOLIDGE'S GUIDE

Antoine Dennis Relinquished Chance Because of Poor Eyes

BY ALLEN DALRYMPLE

Superior—If for more than half a century you had tramped the northern woods, known as no other man the hunting and fishing paradises in this land of savilike water, would you decline an opportunity to guide the president of the United States to the places close to your heart? Antoine Dennis did.

Old Antoine did because he was afraid—not of the tracks, rapids or the treacherous rocks in the Brule, or the great white father from Washington, but of his failing eyesight and ebbing strength.

It was to the Indian's home, this forest, the President Coolidge came for his vacation, too late in Dennis' life, however, and the guide turned to a younger man to take the responsibility. He suggested his son-in-law, quiet, stalwart John Larock, Lake Dennis, half French, who had learned of the forest and streams from the dean of the north woods guides. And Larock was selected by Mr. Coolidge, but few new he was not the first considered.

To the forest Dennis owes his existence. From it he was eked a living since boyhood, trapping, fishing, logging and as a licensed guide. Antoine always new where to find the outcroppings of "Miswable", as the Indians called copper, and in early days he was much in demand by parties following in Wisconsin the extension of the copper range from Michigan.

When the logging began Antoine learned with the aptitude of a true woodsman, he became an expert at driving the logs downstream. Well on toward 80 the Indian attributes his longevity to his years of outdoor life.

Dennis' children are grown, however, and have left home. His wife died years ago and so he lives alone in a little cabin surrounded by pine trees, a few miles only from Cedar Island lodge and the president.

WANT BROADER USE OF TRAFFIC BUREAU

Committee Wants More Merchants and Businessmen to Use Its Service

Efforts to make the traffic bureau of Appleton Chamber of Commerce more useful by urging more business men to avail themselves of its service were discussed at the initial meeting of the traffic division of the chamber Friday. Every member of the committee will endeavor to have someone who should use the bureau but is not doing it now accompany him to the next meeting and merchants and manufacturers will be urged to have their freight bills audited by the bureau before paying them.

This service of auditing freight bills is given by the bureau without charge. It was explained.

Organization of a traffic class also was discussed and a committee consisting of A. W. Lese, A. R. Eads and F. P. Young was appointed to formulate a course of study. The classes will be held in the fall and winter to instruct shipping clerks and others interested in the subject.

The committee here after will meet on the first Tuesday evening of each month.

Committee members at the meeting were P. C. Wesco, chairman, A. H. Thuerer, Arthur Horne, Herrin Krueger, George Nollins, L. J. Marshall, A. W. Lese, George Sweetman, A. R. Eads and C. E. Mackay.

WANTS STATE TO VOTE $5,000 TO FIND OLSON

Madison—(AP)—So firmly convinced is he of the guilt of Edman Olson in the death of his sister, Clara Olson, that J. E. McSwain, assistant attorney general, yesterday that he had a reward of $5,000 to be used in finding Edman, and turning him to Crawford for trial.

Mr. McSwain in a recently completed investigation of the two-year-old mystery, which upon Gov. Zimmerman's request, in response to a plea of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Olson that their son Edman be located of the charge.

Gov. Zimmerman has not yet officially committed the state to carrying out the search for Olson. Mr. McSwain said, but a copy of the report has been furnished to him.

No plans have yet been made to be completed to require the state to aid in the search for Mr. McSwain said.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruth Wynn and son, George, are spending a two-week vacation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Smith at St. George.

NO FIELDHOUSE FOR U. OF W. NEXT FALL

Won't Be Able to Complete Structure Before Next Summer

Madison—(AP)—Wisconsin university's hopes of playing next season's basketball games in a new field house are slight—very, very slight.

Officials who have charge of planning and erecting state-owned buildings feel now that they will be well pleased if the new structure is ready for use by next June.

Arthur Paschke, state architect, believes it will be late summer before the university can prepare complete plans for the building. He is now going over the plans for the new permanent of the University with a view to arranging the new layout of the seating system to care for the crowds which attend the contests.

The seating capacity is to be approximately 12,000. Mr. Paschke promises to make a better provision for sports writers covering the games that was available to them in the old press room at the University gymnasium.

A route filed with many obstacles is that which the field house has pursued. Early this spring the athletic department felt its realization was assured under arrangements to erect the structure with the aid of the Wisconsin Building Corporation.

Because the money to be used was to come in a loan of $200,000 from the teachers' retirement fund, the question of the building corporation's liability was brought before the state supreme court. The body held the loan valid.

Further delay was encountered in the governor's office. Gov. Zimmerman declining to approve the building until certain changes had been made in the lease between the University and the building corporation.

Mr. Paschke said he was prepared to start a full force of draftsmen on the plans last April but because of the delay he was forced to cut down his staff and is now unable to carry out the plans for several weeks.

After actual construction work is begun, he believes it will require at least six months to complete the structure.

Maxine Holben, Appleton, will leave Saturday for the north woods where he will spend a weeks vacation.

Mrs. Paul A. Smith and daughter Lucille of Combined Locks will leave Sunday for Montreal, Canada, where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith.

TOWNSPREPARE PROGRAM
FOR 1ST CONCERT

Moose Band Plays Excellent Program in La Follette Park Sunday Night

Kaukauna—The program has been completed for the first of a series of ten band concerts to be played by the Moose band, Sunday night. The concert will be given in La Follette park on the south side.

Beginning at 7:30, the program will continue until about 9 o'clock according to Norman Gerharz, manager of the band.

Mr. Gerharz said arrangements for the remainder of the concerts would be made after Sunday evening's program. Under an agreement with the common council the band was given a donation and in return is to play a series of ten concerts.

One of the features of the program Sunday night will be a trombone solo, "Gaiety Polka" by H. Hartley, which will be played by Ralph Wilpolt. E. W. Wiedenbeck will direct the band. Following is the program:

The Standard Bearer, march

MERTES BLANKS HOMANS
IN SOFTBALL TUSSLE

Kaukauna—Mertes, star pitcher for the Electricians, pitched another no run game when they took a 4 to 0 win from the Homans in a Soft Ball twilight league game played at 6 o'clock Friday evening on the municipal playgrounds. It was a close game all the way through, the score being 2 to 0 until the last inning when the Electricians succeeded in bringing in two more runs. The batteries were Mertes and McMorro for the winners and Engstrom and Frank for the Homans.

Monday evening the Bankers will do battle with the Andrews Oils. The Bankers have been going good the last few games. In their last encounter they tripped up the Homans 7 to 2.

BOY SCOUTS ATTEND
DEDICATION OF CAMP

Kaukauna—A large crowd of local boy scouts will attend the dedication of the new boy scout cabin on Lake Winnebago, about 4 miles beyond Waverly on highway 114 Sunday afternoon according to Olin G. Dyer, principal of the Kaukauna High school. Mr. Dyer is acting as scoutmaster during the absence of Scoutmaster H. C. Ransley. Mr. Ransley will be back by Sunday and he will leave with the local scouts about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon for the cabin. The dedication program starts at 3 o'clock and it is being supervised by M. G. Clark, valley scout executive. The new cabin was built to be used by all the scouts in the Fox river valley.

Kaukauna Man Gets His
Fun From Duck Culture

Kaukauna—The raising and care of 200 ducks is the hobby of Anton Rausch, 300 Sarah-st.

Mr. Rausch has 200 Giant White Pekin ducks in a pen near his boat house on the Fox river about one-half mile north of the Riverview sanatorium. The ducks are housed in a coop about 20 feet long and 15 feet wide and five feet high. They are allowed to roam in a wire enclosure about 50 feet square.

One end of the enclosure juts into the Fox river and the ducks have a stretch of water 50 feet long and 10 feet wide in which they can swim and also catch bugs and other nature food.

The birds have become so tame that they answer Mr. Rausch's whistle and flock for their meals each morning.

Mr. Rausch said his ducks have a daily routine of activities and they follow it very closely. In the morning they answer his whistle and come to breakfast and after finishing the meal they all enter the water where they sport around for an hour or two and then look for a shady place to sleep.

They follow the same program at noon and after the evening meal they go to the little house for the night. During the morning and evening only a few of the ducks swim about on the water and scratch for food.

Next year Mr. Rausch intends to build a brooder house in addition to the regular housing facilities for his birds.

"I find the best way to raise ducks is to give them ample room to move about, plenty of the right kind of food and lots of water," Mr. Rausch said.

HILBERT MAN FINDS TRUANT RING, LOST IN FIELD 25 YEARS

Hilbert—That which was lost shall be found, even though 25 years elapse between the losing and the finding, it was demonstrated this week at Hilbert when John Anheier, well-known farmer of this district, recovered a gold wedding ring which he lost a quarter century ago.

In 1903, Mr. Anheier lost his ring while plowing the fertile acres of the Anheier home farm. A search by Anheier, members of the family and farm hands, failed to produce the missing gold ring. Even though Anheier offered the additional stimulus of a $5 reward for the one who found the ring.

Last Saturday, Anheier was engaged in cultivating beats in the field where the ring was lost. A reddish metal object, half concealed in the surface dirt, attracted his attention, and he stooped to pick up his truant piece of jewelry. In spite of its years in the soil, the band was still intact and once again graces Anheier's finger.

Do you know how inexpensive a Packard Six really is?

MANY people—without investigating—think the Packard Six is beyond their means. Invariably they have estimated the price around a thousand dollars too high.

You can buy a Packard Six at a third less than you may have thought—for the prices are as low as $2275 at the factory, with the beautiful Five-Passenger Sedan listing at only $2285.

Why not enjoy a Packard Six this Spring? If you keep it four or five years, as most owners do, your motoring costs will be no greater than if you buy and trade in a car of the $1500 class every two years or so.

If your present car is of average value it will make or exceed the down payment on a Packard Six. May we make you an estimate based on the highest possible price for which we can hope to sell it? The balance can be paid on monthly terms which you will find very easy to meet.

STAGE And SCREEN

COLLEEN MOORE REFUSES TO STAY CLASSIFIED AS A SCREEN ARTIST
Every so often, the movie picture industry declares that Colleen Moore is definitely established as a specialist in this or that sort of characterization, and just as often she makes an unqualified success in an entirely different field of dramatic work.

For Miss Moore, whose new picture "Happiness Ahead" is the Elite Theatre's attraction next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, has always insisted on variety in her portrayals. In the early days of her career she was put in several leading roles as a sweet, unspoiled country girl. Then she made a sensational success as a flopper in "Fanning Youth," and the industry agreed that she was the ideal flopper type. Next she played a powerful dramatic characterization in "So B" an amazing variety with her versatility, and then turned deliberately into comedy-drama, in which she attained new heights of popularity.

Just when most producers and directors decided that she was the ideal "Comedy" type, Miss Moore selected "Like Time" for her next picture, in which she will be seen as a French peasant girl in a story that is a romantic drama.

Miss Moore appears in "Happiness Ahead," which demands both sprightly comedy and emotional drama. Edmund Lowe plays opposite the star in "Happiness Ahead," others prominent in the cast being Lilian Tashman, Edwige Chapman, Charles Selton, Arthur Housman and Virginia Sale.

NEW DIX COMEDY
Again Richard Dix, whose recent face comedies have struck a new, high note in motion picture entertainment, makes a decided hit. His latest picture, the farce comedy, "Easy Come, Easy Go," now playing at Fischer's Appleton Theatre.

This latest Dix picture is the screen version of the Owen Davis play and the production is excellently staged and developed. The theme is light and wholesome, the acting cleverly appealing and the situations handled with all the finesse of which veterans are capable.

Dix takes the role of an American youth, honest and industrious, but temporarily downcast and in need of a job. At this crisis in his life, he meets a girl and almost simultaneously is unwittingly induced to aid a clever but good-natured crook in a bank robbery. When he discovers what he has done, he is in such a position as to make restitution difficult and embarrassing and those persons most interested in recovering the money do all in their power to frustrate his good intentions.

The part is one peculiarly adapted to Richard Dix's art. It is a fast moving, action producing part with a distinct note of sympathetic humor which is easy to understand and easy to respond to.

Supporting Dix is Nancy Carroll, whose previous success in the picture-branch of Anna Nichols' "Abe's Irish Rose" won her a favored place on the screen. She increased her lead on real movie time by her work in this picture. A full cast of well-known Paramount players portray characters which are decidedly representative and appealing.

RAMON NOVARRO SCORES AS SAILOR IN TENSE TALE OF ROMANTIC LOVE
"Across to Singapore" Ben Ames Williams' and drama of the sea, with Ramon Novarro as the star, is the attraction at Fischer's Appleton Theatre four days starting Monday, for of course, it is a picture of the sea.

This much heralded Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer drama is a vivid story of romance and adventure told in a high sea in New England and in the mysterious Oriental melting-pot of Singapore.

The new play is a graphic romance of the clipper ships, with Novarro as a young sailor, enmeshed in a strange love affair which leads to dramatic adventure. Much of the picture was filmed aboard the clipper ship "Marion," which put to sea with the crew for a fortnight. Pacific cruise during which the sea scenes, including the terrific storm, the mutiny, and the attack of Oriental pirates, was filmed.

John Crawford, noted for his work in many pictures, plays the heroine's May W. Dan W. Martin and Ernest Terrence, James Mason, Edward Connelly, Frank Currier, An-

APPLETON NINE PLAYS IN NEW LITTLE CHUTE PARK SUNDAY

Hope To Follow Kaws And Beat Papermakers; Ritten To Take Mound

Kaukauna Meets Fondy at Home and Neenah-Menasha Goes to Green Bay

STANDINGS	W. L. Pct.
Kimberly-Little Chute	8 2 .800
Green Bay	7 3 .700
Kaukauna	7 3 .700
Fond du Lac	4 3 .533
Neenah-Menasha	1 9 .100

SUNDAY'S GAMES
Appleton at Little Chute.
Fond du Lac at Kaukauna.
Neenah-Menasha at Green Bay.

Taking heart from their win over Menasha Wednesday, Appleton ball team will go to Little Chute Sunday afternoon and try to turn in a second victory over the combined talent of the Appleton and Little Chute teams. In the new Little Chute park, the game will be the second on the village diamond and if the bad luck encountered by the Papermakers July 4 continues, the Brautigan men might come home with the long end of the score.

Ritten will get the first call to pitch the afternoon melee. Brautigan, believing the youngster's left handed slant can accomplish the most against the Kim-Little Chute left handed clubbers. Ritten pitched against the Papermakers several weeks ago and allowed three hits in three innings. He tossed one each inning.

Refuge will be ready to take the mound if Ritten is not right. He complained of a sore arm Wednesday but the injured member probably has gotten around with three days rest. Stoffel also may be ready to call but it is unwise to pitch him against a lot of clubbers like Marty Lamers and company. Crowe makes the fourth Appleton man ready for mound duty.

Brautigan's initial lineup will find the same men on the field who were there Wednesday at Menasha. Art Homan will be taking it up behind the bat. Radke on first, Tornow on second, Crowe short and Cully Schultz third. The combination worked satisfactorily against the Pails and there is no reason it won't repeat. Al Gosha, Van Wyke and Murphy will cavort in the daisies, three globe fielders and mean meat with the club.

Pocan probably will draw the assignment to pitch for the league leaders. He retired Wednesday under a barrage of hits but after a half day's work and three days rest should be ready to go the route. The local aggregation counted seven hits off him in the last appearance here and with the team hitting like it did at Menasha, Squaw is in for an interesting afternoon.

Kimberly's defeat in the hands of Kaukauna and Green Bay's trimming by Fond du Lac have put a bit more pep into the league race. The Papermakers no longer can feel secure in their position in standings for either Green Bay or Kaukauna, both of whom are tied for second place, can be given a chance to again trim the leaders. Fond du Lac has an outside chance to come through through while Appleton and Neenah-Menasha with have to stagger along and hope to be up among em at the close of the year.

Kaukauna will meet Fondy in the Electric city park and the Falls will journey north to the Green Bay. The outcome of the former game is a tossup while the wins may be depended upon to win the latter. If Abbott again takes the mound for Les Smith's team and is in good fettle along with Schramm, the Kaukauna fans will see a nice battle.

Rachel, unless the unexpected happens he will chalk up another win. Janoski should be ready to toss for Neenah-Menasha with Powell ready to do the rescue act.

DOUBT MONROE DEAD IN CANADIAN WILDS

Friends Believe Body Found Is Not Ex-fighter and World War Vet

New York—(AP)—Doubt that the body of a man found in a cabin at Rouyn, Ont., was that of the famous boxer Jim Monroe, who was reported missing last week, was expressed from several sources Saturday.

Mrs. Jack Monroe, wife of the man who stood up for four rounds before Jim Jefferson when the latter was world's heavyweight champion, said at Toronto that her husband had no interest in Rouyn and that he was looking over mining claims at Red Lake, Ont., but she added she had received no word from him in the last couple days.

Frank Carrie, a close companion of Monroe also cast doubt upon the identification. He expressed the belief at Toronto that the body was that of "Little" Jim Monroe, a mine prospector, to whom the former pugilist was not related.

George Henderson, a nephew of Monroe by marriage, said here that relatives of the pugilist are disinclined to believe the report as two years ago a similar report was received from the Canadian mining company and later proved to be false.

Canadian authorities said Monroe's body was found by prospectors attracted to the cabin by the barking of a dog. Henderson said Monroe never took a dog with him on prospecting trips. The dispatches said the dead man apparently had been alone on his last expedition, but relatives here asserted he never undertook such trips unaccompanied.

PIRATES LOSE 11-7 AND DROP TO SIXTH PLACE IN NATIONAL

Hack Wilson Gets Two Homers and Chi Cubs Beat Dodger, 14 and 8

Experts who made Pittsburgh a favorite to win the National league race again look bad but the Pirates look worse. After dropping their fifth straight game Friday to the New York Giants, 11 to 7, the Pirates are in sixth place.

The Pirates fought their way through one of the hottest campaigns in National league history last year and emerged victorious by narrow margins. Then, they lost to the New York Yankees, American league champions, bowing in four straight games.

The Pirates have had their share of injuries but the chief difficulty has been with the pitching staff. Traynor, Grantham, Wright, and Adams all have been out of the game at one time or another but that did not hurt half as much as the failure of the Mountsman. Kremer, Meadows, Hill and Milus won 63 games and lost 32 last season. Meadows, suffering from sinus trouble, has not appeared in a big league game this year. The other three have been beaten 22 times and won only 14. Burleigh Grimes has been doing all the heavy work and he's beginning to show signs of strain.

The Giants' lead over the Pirates, however, is not as wide as it seems. The Pirates have had their share of injuries but the chief difficulty has been with the pitching staff. ## "RABBIT" STAGING COMEBACK

"RABBIT" MARANVILLE

Visit St. Louis and you'll hear tonight who has reformed and is showing flaming youth that age, in his case, does not bow to youth.

Maranville is not as spry as in the old days, nor is he the dangerous hitter that he was. But he has more spirit and more fight than any man on the club and has the other players happy. His work is making the Cards one of the most machine-like clubs in the majors.

There was a time when the "Rabbit" was one of the big cut-outs in baseball and the national pastime was considered merely a sideline to him. But those days are gone forever. He climbed on the water wagon for good months ago.

The Cards are not in by any means, but they're the favorite to cop in the older circuit. Perhaps they won't, but it won't be Maranville's fault.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

Johnny Farrell, it was remarked jocosely after he had won the national open golf championship in Chicago, will now have plenty of dough with which to indulge his whim for fancy draperies.

Bob Jones in the play-off for golf's biggest prize is as celebrated for his style in raiment on the course as for the beauty of his strokes and it has been said of him that he wore down more in going after the prizes for the best dressed golfer than in making strokes for the best golf score.

But the young man had an answer in keeping with the jests. "The best dressed prize is $1500 and all the clothes I can wear and the purse for the open is $500 and a cup that no one can use," he said.

The young man of clothing with his new title, of course, is just a way of saying that Farrell is in the big dough and fancy toys seem to be his chief hobby. If he went for automobiles the talk would be about what a fancy buggy or a bunch of them he could buy because the commercial side of the championship was the one most discussed at the Olympia Fields Country Club.

When the field of entries was whittled down to Jones and Farrell, two of the most popular players in the world, the support of the gallery turned most obviously to Farrell.

It was a singular sight to see Farrell hold up his hand during the play-off round and ask the gallery to keep quiet while Jones was making his shot. It was unusual to hear the wild cheers when the young New York pro made some of his astounding shots and it was almost astounding to see the crowd rush the last green and take Farrell away on its shoulders when he had holed the putt that made him the champion.

It was not that the crowd was against Jones. Far from it. Each one of the pair fighting for the championship was held in the greatest esteem by the spectators, but the strong rally to the support of Farrell was explained in these words, heard on all sides:

"Let Farrell have it. Jones has all the glory he needs and wants. The championship would mean little to him and it would mean a fortune for Farrell. Golf is his business and he deserves it."

That was it, the dough angle. Jones, an amateur, couldn't capitalize on it. Farrell, a professional, could make the most of it.

And the question is, what is the title worth to a pro?

The most conservative estimate is its value at least $25,000. Others place the estimate as high as $100,000.

Walter Hagen, according to a close friend, has for years considered it a bad year when he did not make $30,000 a year and in many of those years he was not the champion.

Hagen made more than $100,000 in some years from exhibition and other matches but the Hag is one of a very few who will not balk at a match for a side bet of $5000 or more. He was also fortunate in getting in for some prize money during the exploitation of Florida.

Farrell has been making quite a lot of money for several years without a title. He made at least $25,000 last year and was so active in small tournaments and exhibitions that it is doubtful if he can add as much to his income as young Roland Hancock could have done if he had not blown himself out of the championship.

Golfers like Hagen and Farrell can get from $250 upwards for an exhibition match and it may be that Johnny, just because he is now the real recognized champion, will get $500 from a club that paid him $250 for an exhibition when he was recognized as the unofficial champion in exhibition work.

Testimonials for various times of merchandise offer a fruitful field for an unknown champion. But Farrell, already has a car and he has a very nice and the clubs with the Farrell name on them have been sold for years and hardly will be more valuable than they were before. He has been "on good luck to become a sufferer" since he would have been if he happened to be an unknown.

The stage and the green have been well drained by celebrities. Hagen got only $500 a week for the time he spent in making a move for a winner and that isn't much dough for a move after.

Farrell will get plenty out of the title of course, but he will not far over an easy million dollars.

BREWERS WIN FROM LOUISVILLE, 6 TO 5

Chicago—(AP)—The Trade Mid West found themselves back in the first division Saturday, securing a half game margin over St. Paul after losing the same margin in the first game of the season.

Kansas City and Milwaukee came at each other in the second division, the latter winning the game, 6 to 5, after a long battle.

Minnesota showed Columbus a number of times in the third division, but the Cubs were the victors.

NASH GOES TO BUFFALO
Tom Nash, Georgia's great artist, was named as the Buffalo Indians' national for assisting as soon as he reported to the New York Giants.

Juniors Lose To Bays Friday, 12 To 5; Play Kimberly Here Sunday

Defeat Does Not Eliminate Locals in Tournament; Meet Winners Again

Fox River Valley Batting Averages

Success in their undertakings apparently has had a bad effect on members of Appleton Junior baseball team. One Johnston, post of the American legion's entry in the national junior baseball tournament, for after walloping Seymour last Tuesday 33 and 6, the youngsters went out and lost to Green Bay Friday afternoon at Brandt park 12 and 5.

Tuesday's game was a real credit to the youthful Ty Cobbs but when they took the field Friday afternoon they were caught napping and seemed to have forgotten the business before them. Perhaps the defeat did the boys good and when they clash with Kimberly at 2:30 Sunday afternoon they'll get down to business and work. Friday's defeat did not eliminate the team in the district meet for the Green Bay again and if the Bays are beaten will have an opportunity to play off the tie.

Murphy started pitching for Appleton and hurled until the first of the eighth inning when Pribe replaced him. The former allowed 11 hits during the game, but in the eighth and ninth innings he was perfect.

The Cards were not in by any means, but they're the favorite to cop in the older circuit. Perhaps they won't, but it won't be Maranville's fault.

Appleton took the lead in the first inning when Greishaber walked and scored on another walk and a hit. The advantage was short lived however, for the Bays came back with a vengeance in the second inning and four and three walks counted five runs.

The Bays counted two more times in the third and fourth innings while Appleton marked up one in each of the frames. The fifth, sixth and seventh innings saw both teams playing straight ball, but in the eighth the Bays made three hits and a walk equal to three runs. Appleton tried to even the count in its half the frame but was able to get only two counters on an error and two walks. Both teams were retired in regular order in the ninth inning.

FIRE ISN'T ONLY RISK COVERED BY MODERN INSURANCE

Vander Heyden's Company Protects Against Common and Uncommon Hazards

Fire is not the only hazard against which a home should be protected with insurance, according to W. H. Vander Heyden, insurance and real estate dealer at 107-109 W. College Ave. in the Olympic building. The Metropolitan Casualty's blanket residence policy covers the home in every imaginable way, both in common and uncommon dangers surrounding it.

The policy includes loss or damage to property on the exterior and interior. It covers losses by water or steam from plumbing or heating systems, from explosion of boilers or heating systems; from explosion of boilers or heating apparatus; from rain, snow or water admitted through open or broken windows, skylights, roofs or through roofs from leaders or spouts.

It covers the breakage of windows and includes the replacement of glass broken which permanently fixes such as doors, windows, fixed mirrors in mantels or doors and others. The home is protected against loss or damage to premises, including contents of the home, caused by aircraft or automobile; against damage caused by tornado, cyclone or wind storm.

Loss from criminal activities is also included in this policy, such as thefts by servants, and burglars in general. The coverage indemnifies against direct loss occasioned by payment of any check, draft, or similar negotiable paper, on which your signature is forged or which has been raised or altered.

Last, but not least it covers loss through liability such as claims for damage against you for injuries or death sustained by servants, casual help, by the public or guests while on your premises—not only in the house but on the grounds, including sidewalks, ways or premises adjacent to the grounds.

In states where domestic servants are included in the employer's compensation act, the coverage includes benefits, or the act to household or domestic servants or private chauffeurs, on account of personal injuries sustained in the course of their employment. It also covers against claims brought against you for injuries or death sustained by the public or guests while you are engaged in golf, tennis, and other similar games.

AUSTRALIAN FANS HAVE TROUBLE TOO

Americans Are Not the Only Ones Who Are Bothered by Static

Washington (AP)—The Australian radio fan, like his brother listeners in America, is becoming more fastidious about the entertainment he receives from the "theater of the air."

Reports to the Department of Commerce on the radio situation in Australia show that complaints of listeners regarding programs are vexing broadcasters and government supervisory officials. The three chief complaints are that stations broadcast too much sports information, too much jazz music and too many talks.

A commission government found, however, that in view of the quality of programs and the comparatively small sum paid by listeners for a year's entertainment, the public in most of the states have little cause for complaint. The commission said this was especially the case in those states with smaller populations where first class artists were difficult to obtain. No other form of entertainment provides or is expected to provide the variety demanded from broadcasting stations by many listeners, the commission declared.

An interesting recommendation made was that broadcasting companies take the greatest care to obtain announcers who will afford an example to listeners of how the English language should be pronounced and used.

This was considered essential in view of the "far-reaching influence of wireless on listeners, especially children." They said that radio in the hands of the unskilled may have an injurious effect on those who are apt to imitate one who has been especially chosen as an announcer.

Most of the broadcasting stations in Australia are controlled by Amalgamated Wireless Limited, a company which also owns most of the patents on radio apparatus in that country. The postmaster general supervises radio activities.

JUSTICE AS VENGEANCE STILL RULES IN CHINA

Shanghai (AP)—The primitive conception of criminal justice as vengeance, as an appeasement of the criminal's wrath, survives strongly even in modern China, with its codes of modern pattern. There was a spectacular illustration of this recently in Nanking, the national capital.

A policeman was killed by a robber who was caught and sentenced to death. A memorial service for the dead policeman was staged. The mayor of Nanking presided and offered sacrifices before the bier. Hsueh Tung, national minister of the interior, endorsed the dead man's devotion to duty. The service was concluded with the decapitation of the condemned robber in sight of the gathering.

Real Estate Conditions Not Up To Standard Of Last Year

Babson Park, Mass.—Mr. Babson, in his weekly interview today, discusses the real estate situation particularly in reference to rents. He finds property moving fairly well but conditions somewhat more quiet than two years ago. The trend of rentals varies in different parts of the country, but the general tendency is lower. Mr. Babson warns against overbuilding of stores and apartments in places where reports indicate a surplus already exists.

"Reports which I have received from Chambers of Commerce in leading cities of the country generally characterize the real estate situation as fair. The keen edge of real estate speculation was passed some months ago and activity since then has receded. There is still demand for good small houses in most of the larger centers, but apartments and two-family dwellings have been overdone in many sections. Moreover, stores and office buildings are in plentiful supply. Business men seeking office or store space should shop around for bargains. Also manufacturers or merchants seeking property to lease should not be up for too long a period. While no great slump in values of rentals is anticipated, there is, on the other hand, no sign of scarcity of available space and in some places a surplus exists.

"Speculative builders particularly should carefully study building conditions in a given city before going ahead with commercial or office building projects. This does not apply to land which is always increasing in value in good locations. If I were planning a project of industrial or commercial nature, I would purchase the site at once, but would build only after a careful study of general real estate and business conditions showed me that the demand for more building of this kind was assured.

RENTS STABLE
"The peak of rents in many sections was passed in 1925. Since that time more cities have shown declines than advances, but the majority of all cities have reported stabilization of rents slightly under the high point. Out of 21 cities reporting to me in the past month, only 7 state that there is any scarcity of houses for rent and 14 say that the supply for rent is either about normal or greater than the demand. This phase of the rental situation is confirmed by a survey by the National Association of Real Estate Boards of 315 cities. This shows clearly that only in a very small proportion are rents of single family houses higher than they were a year ago. The majority, or 57 per cent of the cities show rents just about the same as a year ago, while 35 per cent of them show rents lower. Seventy per cent of the cities state that apartment rents show no increase over last year and 19 per cent of them show this class with rents lower than last year. Only 11 per cent state that apartment rents are higher.

"Business property centrally located is, for the most part, running at about the same level as it did this time last year, although about one-third of the cities say that the best business property is getting a somewhat higher return than a year ago and one-eighth of the cities say that good business property runs lower than last year. Outlying business property is not renting as well as that in the more central locations. Approximately one-fourth of the cities report lower rents for such property and 60 per cent say that the conditions are the same as a year ago. Only 13 per cent report higher rents. Office rentals in three-fourths of the cities are just about the same as they were last year. Of the remainder, the cities reporting higher rents and those reporting lower rents are about equal. On the whole much more stable conditions both in real estate values and in rentals prevail today than two years ago. Moreover, this stabilization has taken place at levels somewhat below the peak prices prevailing during the feverish boom from 1923 to 1926.

REALTY CONDITIONS
"Speculative real estate activity as typified in the subdivision market is not going ahead in most sections as fast as it was. In the New England states two-thirds of the reporting cities say that subdivision work is slower. This type of real estate expansion, however, is holding up better in the West North Central section and the West South Central section than in other localities. Values seem to be being maintained in the West South Central, South Atlantic, West North Central and Pacific Coast. The majority of cities in all sections report real estate values not much changed from last year, but the percentage of cities where values are lower than a year ago is greatest in the Middle Atlantic, East North Central, New England and Mountain states. Among the cities where real estate seems to be most active at present are: Troy, New York; Muskogee, Okla.; Norman, Okla.; Dallas, Texas; Wichita, Kansas; Jackson, Mississippi; Paterson, New Jersey; Sioux City, Iowa; Kalamazoo, Michigan; and Marion, Georgia.

"Reflecting the general business prosperity that now exists in Canada the real estate market is active with values improving. Practices in all phases of building and real estate are in good shape regarding market values, transfer activity, rentals, subdivision work and demand for new homes and office space. Selling prices of real estate are now high as they were a year in check of the Canadian market.

They are the same in one-half of them, and are lower in less than one-fifth of them. Property is moving more rapidly in 43 per cent of the cities than it did this time a year ago. Subdivision work is more active in approximately two-thirds of the Canadian centers. Money is plentiful for all types of construction and real estate investment.

"Apparently the trend of rents in Canada is still upward for the most part. One-third of the cities here report residential rents moving upwards. The thirds report them stationary. There are no reports of a downward movement. Office rents are no higher on the same, but in no cities lower than last year. There is no indication of overbuilding of single family dwellings or business property, and about one-fourth of the cities of Canada state that there is a shortage of both these types of construction. Apartment houses, on the other hand, have been overbuilt in about one-third of the places reporting. Canada is now experiencing the wave of prosperity that we in this country have enjoyed since 1925, while the improvement in business was later in coming to Canada it has now arrived. Unless speculation in land and securities is overdone, which is an ever present danger, values should be well maintained.

LAND AS AN INVESTMENT

"There will always be plenty of buildings, but there is only so much good land. If I were a rich man, however, I would go out to the edge of a growing town or city where property begins to be quoted by the acre. Money is made in land by purchasing the acre and selling by the foot. Moreover, in buying land one should be prepared to hold for a long time. The best bargains are usually found in the neglected sections of the city, where some day a new highway or other development will increase values. The Babson chart now records business as 3 per cent above normal."

ENGRAVING COMPANY INSTALLS NEWEST MACHINES IN PLANT

Speed and Accuracy Are the Chief Aims of Company—Only Experts Are Hired

New equipment for etching and engraving photographs were recently installed at the Appleton Engraving plant located at 316 W. Water-st. It was necessary to install more of the latest machinery to carry out the policies and endeavors of the company.

Speed is the aim of the company, and only experts in the art of photo engraving are hired. Their skilled knowledge of engraving requirements and limitations makes for economy, speed and satisfaction of the public.

People easily turn at the conclusion that the time is short and tasks are heavy. There is not time and the buyer of engravings should consider the art director and engraver and be eager and willing to cooperate with him in the saving of money and should give the engraving company good material so that the best possible work may be turned out. Officials of the company say.

The company does not set a fixed price on the work, but turns out a definite price on a job and the work is started, and the amount of material to be used is estimated. The larger expense is in the employment of skilled labor, while the cost of material is comparatively small.

ENGINEERS EVOLVE DISTRIBUTION PLAN

Relocation of Broadcasting Stations Will Be Done Systematically

Washington (AP)—When the radio commission starts reallocation of broadcasting stations on a basis of equal distribution of power and wavelengths, devoted to the Congress they will have for their guidance a plan of distribution being worked out by leading radio engineers.

While the legislators have been thrashing out the issue of equitable apportionment of stations among the five zones, radio experts of the government and big commercial organizations have been working quietly on the technical problems involved in a new nationwide broadcasting setup. These engineers volunteered their services without pay.

Outstanding experts on the advisory committee include Dr. J. H. Dethlefsen, of the Bureau of Standards; Maj. William R. Blair, of the Signal Corps; Capt. S. C. Hooper, of the Navy; W. D. Terrell, head of the radio division of the Department of Commerce; L. E. Whittemore, of the radio research department of the Bell Telephone company; and E. S. M. Biddle, of the American Engineering Council.

They have confined their studies to the engineering problems involved in improving radio reception. These include the elimination of various kinds of interference, a more efficient use of the limited number of wavelengths, the question of transmitting power, location and synchronization of stations and the separation of channels.

Problems pertaining to the issuance of licenses, the supervision of broadcast quality of programs and public rendered by stations, are not being considered by the engineers as they are questions of general policy which will be decided by the commission as outlined by Congress.

SCIENTISTS USE BEETLE AS FOOD TEST SUBJECT

St. Paul (AP)—The beetle is taking the place with the white rat and guinea pig in tests to determine effects of various foods, according to scientists at the Minnesota natural experimental station here.

The small amount of food required, the short life cycle and the simple laboratory requirements for breeding insects recommended that beetles were selected for the experiment.

Let's look at the experiment. If beetles are used, their eggs, larvae and pupae come more or less into being at the same age.

Model Gliders

Take a thin piece of cardboard or stiff paper about one foot long and nine inches wide and fold it across the middle. Then draw the outline of half the glider as indicated by the dotted line. Keeping the card folded, cut out the shape. Make cuts for the ailerons and fix a paper-fastener to the nose as a weight.

Here are part of the materials for a more advanced type. Figure 1 is the cardboard folded double, with measurements of the two wings. Figure 2 shows the planes opened out.

"Maybe not," was the reply, "but ever since I signed that I'm reading."

LATEST NEWS OF THE AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY

OAKLAND BUILDING ITS OWN FOUNDRY

Branch of General Motors Expects to Spend Several Million Dollars

Marking the latest development in the spectacular building program of the Oakland Motor Car company, A. R. Glancy, president and general manager, announced here today that construction will start immediately on a thoroughly modern gray iron foundry. While no cost figure was released, it is understood the new building project will represent an investment of several million dollars.

Six new buildings will comprise the foundry unit. Full operation is expected to be reached not later than February, 1929, Mr. Glancy stated.

Completion of the project will further the claim of the Oakland company to having the most modern and best equipped automobile factory in the world.

Excavation work is already under way for the new building under the direction of L. A. Blackburn, resident engineer for the Oakland company. Mr. Blackburn estimated that 70,000 cubic yards of earth will have to be moved for the foundations, and that thirty days would be required for this work.

The foundry will stand adjacent to the recently completed Oakland and Pontiac Sides.

Included in the group will be a foundry proper; a core building, a cupola building, sand storage building, cleaning building, and service building. The group will have a total of 200,000 square feet of floor space. The foundry will have a pouring capacity of 450 tons of castings daily. Machine operations will be used wherever possible, so that a maximum of only 700 men will be needed when the foundry is running at capacity. Several miles of conveyors, overhead equipment and scientific devices of the most advanced type known will perform the labor which was done by hand in the old type shop.

The foundry proper will be 260 by 247½ feet in size—a one-story building of a height equivalent to two stories. This will provide light airy working conditions comparable to the ideal arrangement in the new Oakland and Pontiac plants.

The core building will be one-story high and 160 by 247½ feet in size; the sand storage building will be fifty feet high and 80 by 260 feet.

Mr. Glancy explained that by operating its own foundry the Oakland company will be enabled to maintain still closer supervision over the quality of materials used in the building of Oakland and Pontiac Sides.

The foundry represents a continuation of the expansion program launched in 1926, when construction of a thoroughly modern and complete automobile manufacturing plant was started on a plot of ground on the outskirts of Pontiac. This plan is now well under way with the recent opening of the new Oakland assembly plant, the transfer of the old Oakland motor plant to the new location; and the opening a year ago, of the new Pontiac factories.

Increased efficiency, Mr. Glancy explained, will result from thus centralizing company operations because inter-plant transportation costs will be entirely eliminated.

NEW HUDSON BOASTS ADDED IMPROVEMENTS

Engineers Say No "Doped" Fuel Is Necessary to Make Engine Run Good

"Something entirely different" is the Hudson Super-Six motor, according to Appleton Hudson Co. These Hudson dealers are conducting a special demonstration campaign here and Messrs. Adams and Haen tell an interesting and enthusiastic story of Hudson design and construction.

"No since the introduction of the famous Super-Six balanced crankshaft has Hudson made such an advance in engine design as this motor represents," he said. "The Super-Six principle has for 10 years been the envy of designers and has been as nearly copied as patents permit; and this new motor design will prove equally worthy of imitation, but it also is fully protected by patents. The most interesting features are:

"1. The motor employs unusually high compression for modern power and efficiency, yet avoids 'spark knock,' sluggishness and the other qualities heretofore thought unavoidable with such a motor.

"2. No special or doped fuels are necessary or even desirable; the design of the motor cares for this problem.

"3. Fuel energy formerly wasted is turned into power. Greater power is developed at all speeds and particularly at high speeds—yet the motor is described as highly economical.

"4. A degree of smoothness and flexibility is gained which may be compared with that of a steam engine.

"So important does Hudson regard these results that it has applied for and received basic patents on the design and the principles involved.

"Right now we are demonstrating to motorists the superiority in performance which this wonderful design makes possible. There is just nothing you can ask of an automobile engine in power, performance, economy, which Hudson won't do. Yet it has the fuel economy of a car much lighter and less powerful. I have yet to show this Hudson to a motorist who is not amazed at its possibilities. I make the open statement that Hudson is the best roadster car in the American market, bar none."

The air-driven equipment at the Oakland Plant uses 3,500,000 cubic feet of air per day.

HORSEPOWER? IT'S TWO AGAINST ALL YOU WANT

Summer days and country highways call this new Dodge Victory Six sport roadster along old Dobbin's trail. The roadster just announced is available in many color combinations with nickel plating giving its sweeping, graceful lines a final dash of smartness. Standard equipment includes trunk rack, and two spare wire wheels and tires mounted on the front fenders. The car is priced at $1,245.

ADD SPORT ROADSTER TO VICTORY SIX LINE

Dodge Brothers Model Is One That Will Appeal to Considerate Buyer

With summer driving days just ahead, the addition of a sport roadster in the Victory Six line has been announced by Dodge Brothers, Inc., to meet the demand for an open car combining Victory Six performance with smartness and attractive color combinations.

Six wire wheels, the two spares being carried in wells of the front fenders, are standard equipment, with trunk rack in the rear. With the top down, the windshield can be pushed over forward to afford unobstructed vision.

Heavy nickel plating features the roadster equipment throughout, lending unusual beauty to its sweeping, graceful lines. Included in the nickel finish are steering column, gear shift and handbrake levers, bumpers, windshield frame and automatic wiper, cowl lamps and molding, head lamps and stanchions, door handles, spare tire carriers and locks, hood locks, hood hinge and latches and hub caps.

Upholstery is of best quality pigskin, blending with color trimmings and lacquer body finish. Three passengers can be seated comfortably in the front seat. Mechanically, innovations of the sport roadster include the starting button on the instrument board instead of on the floor, and an engine temperature indicator under the glass instrument panel grouped with oil gauge, speedometer, ammeter and fuel gauge. A hooded nickel plated dash lamp is provided. Spark and throttle control levers are on top of the steering wheel while the light switches are on the steering column within easy reach.

All Victory Six features, including Lockheed internal expanding hydraulic brakes, sturdy body construction and powerful flexible engine with lightning acceleration, are emphasized in production of the sport roadster priced at $1,245, f. o. b. Detroit.

PACKARD CARS IN JAPANESE PAGEANT

Royal Family Places Orders for American Made Automobiles

American motor cars will have an important part in what is expected to be the most spectacular royal pageant in the history of Japan. They will participate in the parade which is to be a big feature of the coronation ceremonies with which Prince Hirohito will be officially crowned emperor.

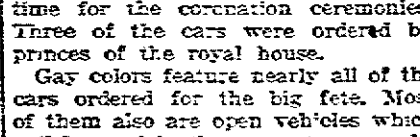

At the New York office of the Packard Motor Car Company, it was learned that 15 Packard cars have been purchased by members of the royal family and nationally known men in Japan with shipping instructions specifying that they will be in Tokyo in time for the coronation ceremonies.

Three of the cars were ordered by princes of the royal house.

Gay colors feature nearly all of the cars ordered for the big fête. Most of them also are open vehicles which will be used in the coronation parade.

INHERITS FORTUNE AND BUYS A BUICK

"I Have Always Wanted One," Says Mrs. Dorothy Smith of Peoria, Ill.

Flint, Mich.—What would you do if you inherited a million dollars? Hundreds have asked themselves this question, or one differing from it principally in the amount involved. But a comparative few of all the hundreds ever have an opportunity to see just what they would do, by actually inheriting the money.

Mrs. Dorothy Pearl Smith of Peoria, Ill., is one of the few, and her story reads like a fairy tale. When she was a little girl in Kansas, years ago, her mother suddenly disappeared and efforts to find her were futile. Dorothy Pearl Orendorf eventually married Edward Smith of Peoria, and established her own family, the whereabouts of her mother remaining a mystery all through the years.

A short time ago, a firm of New York attorneys notified Mrs. Smith that her mother, on her deathbed in Shanghai, China, had penned a will leaving her entire fortune, over a million dollars, to Dorothy Pearl. When the necessary documents had been exchanged, Mrs. Smith received the first draft against her inheritance—fantastic proof that the fantastic tale was true.

And the first thing Mrs. Smith did was to visit the Buick dealer and purchase a Buick brougham, paying for it with the first expenditure from her legacy. "I have always wanted a Buick and my inheritance has made it possible to have one," she said. Mr. and Mrs. Smith and their son are now on their way to China to straighten out the business of the estate—and the Buick is with them.

MOTOR CAR BUYERS SHOP FOR QUALITY

Public Now Demands That Automobile Meet Requirements, Says Auburn Official

"The phenomenal success of Auburn's national 'Show Me' week is another proof of the consumer's belief that the first and chief consideration of an automobile buyer today is performance of the car.

"The fact that our distributors and dealers sold nearly 200 per cent more cars than were allotted them by the factory for the demonstration week, June 10 to 17, is convincing evidence that once a prospect gets into an Auburn and drives it the car will sell itself.

"We asked the public in thirteen cities to come and ride in Auburn cars, put them through any test desired, and then if they were not satisfied that Auburn was the car that suited them in every way they were not asked to buy. On this basis in the week New York alone sold 302 per cent above its quota.

"It is the belief of Auburn that the motor buying public takes the 'Show Me' attitude—that the car must prove its performance qualities. The public has reached the shopping point in buying cars. That is why every week is 'Show Me' week with Auburn."

The Auburn car is sold in Appleton and vicinity by the Auburn Motor Co., L. Seft, Mgr.

OLDSMOBILE DEALERS DEMAND MORE CARS

Factory Sets New All-time Record With 50,000 Cars in Six Months

More than 50,000 Oldsmobiles have been shipped during the six months of 1928 just ending. This sets a new high all time record for any half year period, Oldsmobile officials report.

Retail sales are keeping pace with factory shipments and the demand for cars from dealers is increasing each month. Oldsmobile distributors and branch managers have reported that sales during the second ten-day period in June show a 20 per cent increase in demand over the first ten-day period. This increase in retail sales is considered unusual at this season.

June is the fourth consecutive month in which Oldsmobile shipments have attained record figures. In March more than 50,000 Oldsmobiles were shipped and in April, May and June more than 11,000 Oldsmobiles were manufactured and shipped each of these months.

It is practically six months since the new Oldsmobile was first introduced at the New York Automobile Show. Since that date many departments at the factory have been operating on an overtime basis to fill dealers' requirements. Production and shipments in January were necessarily low owing to the necessity of entirely reorganizing the factory for the production of the new Oldsmobile. Production was advanced rapidly as is consistent with good manufacturing methods and Oldsmobile's rigid inspection system, and in February more than 50,000 Oldsmobiles were shipped, with the following four months establishing new high records.

When the demand has been universal throughout the country the Central West section is reported to be showing the greatest increases. Every sales section, however,—north, east, south and west, has produced substantial sales gains each month.

To drive away rats, place camphor gum in a cloth soaked in kerosene and plug into the holes.

Fish can be left in an outside pool provided it is deep enough so that when ice forms a sufficient water is left to furnish oxygen for them; if there is mud at the bottom, they will remain quiet and in all probability will survive in comfort.

AUTO OWNERS NOW WOULD OWN 2 CARS

Local Ford Dealer Says It Is No Longer Their Ambition to Own but One

"There was a time when it was the ambition of most thrifty American families to own a Ford car. Millions of families achieved this ambition. Now the intention of many is to own two Fords," says Aug. Brandt of the Aug. Brandt Co. of this city.

"The ownership of two Fords may seem a luxury but the fact is that the same desire for economy that prompted the buying of the old Model T Ford is behind the idea of purchasing a new Ford Model A and keeping the used car.

Mr. Brandt explains this new situation in Ford buying. He says: "The new Ford is admittedly the equal in many respects of the most costly cars. It is being purchased by many of the wealthy buyers. Although low in cost it is an aristocratic car. This fact makes many purchasers feel that it should be kept for 'best'—for Sunday drives and social."

"Many new car purchasers have a Model T that is still in good condition and with probably many thousands of miles of transportation still available in the car. With some mechanical touching-up such a car is worth more in potential service than could be realized through the most liberal kind of a 'trade-in'."

"The result is that many new Ford buyers throughout the country are keeping their old cars which they use for general utility, everyday knockabout service or for the use of the young folks in the family. The new car is kept for Sunday and social use."

"Far from being extravagant the idea is one of the soundest saving. It means years of satisfaction at the lowest possible cost."

7 PLANES STATIONED AT WHITING AIRPORT

Sale by West and Steiger Is First of Its Kind Here This Year

Members of the North American Airways company, operators of George A. Whiting airport, are elated over reports received from members of the American Legion air tour, here recently.

While on the tour, the aviators visited something like two dozen airports and it is the universal opinion that the one here was one of the best, if not the best, of those on which they alighted.

There are now seven airplanes stationed at the airport. The company has the large Sunson, the 'Pride of Appleton', Elwin West has two Waco's, Karl Grunke flies his Travel-Air, William Radtke has a Curtiss Standard and Edwin A. Weiffenbach owns a new Waco, sold him this week by Elwin West and L. J. Steiger, Waco distributors here. The airways company also owns a new Swallow which it uses for training and carrying passengers.

The sale of the Waco by West and Steiger is the first retail sale made here this year.

AMERICAN PRICES BATTER BARRIERS

Europeans Forget Sentiment When They Consider American Values

Despite the desire of European automobile manufacturers to keep the business to themselves and regardless of the wish of European motor car buyers to support home industries, I feel that the great value of the American automobile at its price will break down these sentimental barriers and provide American manufacturers with a steadily expanding market abroad.

"This is the homecoming statement of R. H. Grant, vice-president of the Chevrolet Motor Company in charge of sales, who recently returned from a six weeks tour of the leading business centers overseas.

"America's position in the European market has been made possible and fortified by the advanced production methods employed by the industry on this side of the Atlantic," Mr. Grant pointed out. "Our manufacturing facilities are vastly superior to those of European companies."

"This is true especially in the lower price range where Europe has only one manufacturer that has developed quantity production methods to any considerable extent. And as we know over here, volume manufacturing has been one of the foremost factors in permitting the industry to offer so much automobile at so low a price."

"By the very virtue of the speed required to attain volume, precision is constantly becoming more of an automatic in the manufacturing of our automobiles. Parts must be machined to closer and more accurate limits to make this volume possible, and as a result of this precision we get a finer automobile and as a result of the quantity production which precision makes possible, American manufacturers are able to offer the public more automobiles per dollar than any other in the world."

Mr. Grant is keenly enthusiastic over the prospects for export sales and points to an increasing European trade as an important factor in the development of the automobile business generally.

MARKET OF PRESIDENTS MARKED FOR A WRECKING

Washington—(AP)—Center Market on Pennsylvania avenue for 52 years a landmark of the nation's capital, may soon be torn down to make way for government buildings.

Presidents' wives have rubbed shoulders there with humbler shoppers and congressmen have spent many a Saturday morning discussing the beef situation with its butchers.

Now a bill is pending in congress for destruction of the building after January 1, 1929, to make room for a structure to house the department of justice.

Jacob West, 77-year-old butcher, whose neat little stand has occupied stall number 145 since the building was opened, looks with dismay upon the possible demolition of the building.

When Jacob was 16 years old he joined the gay throng of food mongers as an apprentice butcher in the meat business. That was before the market was entirely housed in the two-block building. Five years later he was on his own, a graduate in the butcher shop business.

"I remember Mrs. Grant when her husband was president," he says. "She used to do her own marketing. She was a nice lady, always pleasant and she knew her business about buying meat. When there was going to be a big party at the White House she always would superintend the buying, although she brought servants to carry the stuff."

Secretary of Agriculture Jardine is a frequent visitor at the market, although only in an official capacity. His wife and two daughters are regular customers on Saturday to superintend the marketing for the Jardine household.

Senators Smoot and Borah both are wise purchasers, market vendors say, who make thorough investigations of all foodstuffs before they purchase. Both of the cabinet's Daveses also are good customers, who supervise the weekly buying for their establishments.

C. H. Walling, superintendent, recalls the weekly trips of Mrs. Roosevelt, with the president at her elbow making sly remarks about her buying ability. He says that President Garfield was a more serious buyer and that President Cleveland was another who took persons interest in the food destined for the White House table.

The department of agriculture took over the market in 1922.

NATURE TESTS TRUCKS OF GRAHAM BROTHERS

On the famous "W" turn of Signal Mountain near Chattanooga, Tenn., these six Graham Brothers trucks are negotiating a grade of 14 per cent. Each truck on a test run from the Dodge Brothers plant carries an overload of iron blocks. The road up Signal mountain is seven miles long, leading to an altitude of 2,300 feet. The truck ran more than 4,000 miles on a recent test lasting five weeks.

FUNDAMENTALIST HEAD MAY MAKE WORLD TOUR

Chicago—(AP)—A world tour to consolidate fundamentalist opinion and organizations may be made by Dr. W. B. Riley, Minneapolis, president of the World's Christian Fundamentals association, which this year is celebrating the tenth anniversary of its founding.

The organization is meeting in Chicago from May 13 to May 26, with separate group meetings in Racine, Wis.; Wheaton, Ill., and Gary, Ind.

Dr. Riley, pastor of the First Baptist church of Minneapolis, and co-founder of the association which he heads, long has considered a journey such as now is proposed. The proposal will be discussed at the convention.

In a conversation ten years ago with Dr. A. C. Dixon, then pastor of the Moody church of Chicago, Dr. Riley and others conceived the idea of organizing a fundamentalist body. Membership now is representative of most Protestant faiths and is widely scattered.

The purpose of the organization is to foster and create a wider belief in what are labelled the fundamental principles in the Christian religion.

To provide greater depth of water in Montreal harbor, seven submerged weirs are to be constructed by the Department of Marine and Fisheries, between the Island of Montreal and Sorel, at a cost of approximately $1,500,000.

WELL GIVES GASOLINE INSTEAD OF WATER

San Angelo, Texas—(AP)—A well which produces gasoline is one of the wonders of Jones county.

The well is in the St. Ch community, is 13 feet deep. The gasoline is almost as pure as that produced in oil refineries and motorists find it satisfactory.

Investigation has revealed that the gasoline seeps into the well from some nearby cavity in the earth. The fluid is taken out with a bucket and the daily output was 100 gallons for a time.

The well lies in the South community.
